Sub Explodes In U.K. Port

Divers Find No Sign of Life
In Hull Where 13 Entombed

PORTLAND, England (Reuters)—A British submarine exploded in harbor here today and went to the bottom with 13 crew members aboard. Rescue officials announced there was no hope for the entombed men—one of them a Canadian—after divers probed the craft for tell-tale knockings from inside which would indicate there was still life aboard.

One of the 13 was Petty Officer Laverne McLeod, 24, an RCN volunteer on submarine duty with the Royal Navy. McLeod was a native of Goderich, Ont., and his next-of-kin resides at Stratford, Ont.

It was not immediately known whether the 13 died in the blast, caused by the explosion of a torpedo propellant, or were suffocated as water seeped in to fill the forward torpedo compartment where they were trapped.

Most of the crew scrambled out of the conning tower after the explosion. Minutes later the vessel, the 1,000-ton Sidon, settled by the bows and suddenly nosed under to take her last dive.

Seven Saved Before Ship Sank

The explosion sent up a sheet of flame and billowing clouds of smoke. Debris was blown up through the conning tower hatch.

Seven injured seamen were rescued before the Sidon went down.

A naval spokesman said after six hours of desperate rescue attempts—divers and salvage ships were drawn from all over the south coast of England—that no hope could be held for the 13.

A rescue party equipped with breathing apparatus boarded the vessel minutes before she sank. In darkness and heavy smoke they struggled in vain to work through the debris to

QUEEN MARY CREW JOINS U.K. STRIKE

SOUTHAMPTON (AP)—Britain's wildcat seamen's strike tied up the 81,000-ton liner Queen Mary today, and 1,100 New York-bound passengers started disembarking. The strike already has tied up Cunard's 32,000-ton Mauretania and five other trans-Atlantic liners.

Mayor Meets Bonner Monday On Auditorium

City Committee Waits for Parley

Mayor Claude Harrison will meet Attorney-General Robert Bonner Monday to discuss recent suggestions by Premier Bennett for use of the capital city grant in providing a civic auditorium here.

Premier Bennett was scheduled to leave today for Ottawa and that is the reason for the meeting with Mr. Bonner.

Due to the impending meeting, city finance committee today deferred discussions on the matter.

IN NEWSPAPERS

But the matter was stalled when it was pointed out that there has been no official communication from the government.

"It has all been newspaper reports," said Ald. W. F. Pinfold, finance chairman.

The mayor is expected to report on an official offer at council meeting next Thursday. Failing that, it is reliably reported the committee will submit a plan to council itself, based on the premier's published offer.

It is possible that following the meeting with the attorney-general, a special session of the finance committee will be called, prior to the council meeting.

"The committee is unanimously in favor of building an auditorium, but we could not debate how to set up the machinery to get one until there is something official from the government," said Ald. Pinfold.

A recent suggestion by Ald. Brent Murdoch that the question of a provincial grant in lieu of taxes should be settled before the capital grant is used for a civic centre, was opposed by Ald. Robert Macmillan.

"Let's get the auditorium first," he stated. He added that the two matters should be kept separate.

Meanwhile, the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday offered to donate $5,000 to "start the ball rolling" on the new auditorium.

Three members were appointed a committee to organize a civic auditorium group among city businessmen. Named were Al Heaslip, Frank Mannix and Jack Ledger.

Mr. Heaslip said need for a civic auditorium was brought forward during the May convention here of Jaycees from throughout B.C. and the Yukon.

West Big 3 Ministers Meet Today

NEW YORK (UP)—The western Big Three foreign ministers, seeking a united front for next week's talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov in San Francisco, began a two-day strategy session here today.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived by air from Washington Wednesday night. British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay flew to New York this morning.

They gathered at Wave Hill, the official residence of Sir Pierson Dixon, British ambassador to the United Nations, at Riverdale in New York City's northernmost reaches along the Hudson River. There the talks were scheduled to begin at a lunch given by Macmillan.

Molotov had gone on before them. Arriving by ship early Wednesday morning, he left for San Francisco by train.

MORE ARRESTS of priests and laymen preceded today's armed revolt in Argentina. Latest Vatican move was excommunication of "all in Argentina who trampled on the rights of the Roman Catholic Church." Argentine president Juan Peron Wednesday expelled nation's two top-ranking prelates after week-end disorders in which 430 (including man shown above) were arrested while seeking sanctuary in Metropolitan Cathedral in Buenos Aires from anti-Catholic rioters.

Argentine Navy, Air Force Jets Bomb Palace

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Jet planes joined in the attack on government house this afternoon, indicating the air force may have joined naval aviation forces in today's revolt. Casualties in the area were believed to be huge.

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Waves of bombers started dropping high explosives around government house at 3.26 p.m. (11.26 p.m., PDT) just when the forces of Peron appeared to be dominating the fighting in downtown Buenos Aires.

At least a dozen bombs fell within eight minutes of the new attack which began in the general area around Government House. It was feared the number of victims would be heavy, since the area includes a number of public and private office buildings.

The revolt against the government of President Juan Peron broke out early today, shortly after the Vatican excommunicated him and other government leaders.

There was a pitched battle in the centre of Buenos Aires, and planes bombed government house, the seat of the government. Revolutionists fired mortars, machine-guns and rifles against the presidential guard.

The revolt was reported to have spread to Rosario, Argentina's second city, although the government claimed the country was quiet outside Buenos Aires.

PRESIDENT JUAN PERON ... Pope cracks down in Argentine church-state dispute

UPRISING IN FORCES

The state radio said units of the air force and navy had rebelled but that army troops were fighting to restore order. It said one airplane had been shot down and three others forced to land. Later the radio said only naval planes were involved.

This correspondent saw casualties being removed from the Plaza de Mayo, in front of government house. Nearby is the national cathedral, centre of last week-end's disturbances involving supporters of the Roman Catholic Church and followers of Peron in his campaign to curb the Church in this country.

The centre of the city was virtually alive with troops, and bands of workers could be seen running in the direction of government house shouting "Peron, Peron!"

When news reached here of the Vatican's action against Peron, Hugo di Piastro, assistant secretary of the government-controlled General Federation of Labor, asked all workers to gather immediately at the federation headquarters, about 10 blocks from government house.

New CD Tests Coming

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government intends to put Canadian continental air defences and civil defence organizations through their paces in an operation similar to Alert 11, Health Minister Paul Martin said today.

MP SEEKS MONDAY HOLIDAYS FOR JULY 1 OBSERVANCE

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Canadians will not have a long week-end holiday when observing the Dominion Day celebration this year because July 1 falls on a Friday and that is the day, by law, that it is celebrated.

But this may be the last year for automatic observance on July 1, J. L. MacDougall (L., Vancouver-Burrard), who was instrumental in having May 24 celebrated on the nearest Monday each year, plans on introducing a bill at the next session of Parliament to have July 1 celebrated on the appropriate Monday.

HOW? IS WORD AS CHIEF MEETS CHIEF

Blackstock Asks Split Cloud To Tell of Red Man's Magic

Is the "death-defying" bullet life insurance in case the chief catches a bit of Chief Split Cloud, Sportsmen's Show sharpshooter, a hoax—or are spectators seated in the line of fire risking a hole in the head?

Arena manager Joe Dukowski said today show authorities were expected to come up with an answer this afternoon at a special meeting with City Police Chief John Blackstock.

About 4,000 Victorians have watched the Indian chief and his son Yellow Hawk doing the impossible with a .22 rifle and a .45 revolver.

A good many of the spectators were practically looking down the barrel and have since wondered whether their admission ticket covered them with

On any well-organized range, nobody fires if there is anyone in front of the firing line. Why don't the same precautions apply at the show?

Arena commission chairman Henry Watson says, "We have the arena manager's assurance that it is completely in order."

Arena manager Joe Dukowski says, "This same act has been going on for 35 years in bigger centres than this. There has never been a ricochet and no one has ever been hurt. Draw your own conclusions."

Most significant remark may be that of Mr. Watson, who said "It is a conjuring trick—aren't they getting good value for their money?"

Million Canadian 'Casualties' In Continental Defence Test

EISENHOWER DECLARES MOCK 'MARTIAL LAW'

EMERGENCY U.S. NEWS CENTRE (UP)—President Eisenhower, leading a government exiled to the countryside by a mock atomic blitz, today declared a mock state of martial law across the nation.

After conferences Wednesday night with top officials on the paper war in the "Operation Alert" civil defence exercise, Mr. Eisenhower decided that mounting "casualties" in the millions made it "essential" that the armed services police the nation.

The theoretical martial law would be in effect until Congress could come into session and the government could pull the country back on its feet from a simulated enemy attack with nuclear bombs from coast to coast.

Lurched—Then Dived to Doom

"She lurched down by the bows right away and then took a sharp dive," said one of the dozens of base workers who saw the sinking.

Small boats picked up swimming survivors who had jumped clear as the Sidon went down. Two were taken to hospital.

The Sidon was one of five submarines lying alongside the depot ship Maidstone. All five were due to put to sea soon for exercises.

The mooring ship Moordale manoeuvred into position immediately after the blast and put a cable around the stern of the Sidon. A naval helicopter sped divers to the scene. They went down to probe damage immediately and to determine means for reaching the trapped men.

The Sidon, an S-class vessel, was built in 1944. She mounts a 20-millimetre cannon and a three-inch gun, and is equipped with 21-inch torpedo tubes.

She took part in operations during the Second World War, and participated in the recapture of Hong Kong in 1945.

Britain's last submarine disaster occurred in April 1951, when the Affray sank in the English channel with the loss of 75 lives.

Sixty-four Royal Navy men died in January, 1950, when the sub Truculent sank after a collision with a Dutch vessel in the Thames estuary.

Ironically, the navy announced the successful conclusion only Wednesday of tests on a new escape chamber by which men trapped in a submarine underwater can get out more safely. The device had not yet been fitted aboard the Sidon.

Campney Cautious On Defence Cuts

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was told it has not implemented its own policies of strengthening defence against attack, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Peakes, VC, Progressive Conservative defence spokesman, said in the Commons today.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada welcomes friendly gestures from behind the Iron Curtain but does not intend to lessen her defence effort, Defence Minister Campney said today.

"The present climate of international affairs appears to be moderating," he said, "but we cannot be sure that the better weather of recent months will endure."

The minister spoke as the House opened discussion on defence estimates for 1955-56 totalling $1,775,000,000 plus other items for defence production and related matters.

On aspects of the new Canadian defence program, Mr. Campney made these statements:

1. The army has decided to adopt the Belgian-developed FN rifle as its standard rifle.

"It is a great nonsense" to talk of abolishing the army, as there will be continuing need for high-calibre ground forces in the foreseeable future.

3. Though Canada expects to spend on the air force this year approximately as much as the combined expenditures for the other services and defence research, this increasing emphasis on air is not at the expense of the other services.

4. The strength of the three regular forces at April 30 stood at 117,999 against the approved maximum strength of 120,000. The division: Navy, 19,292; army, 49,187; RCAF, 49,520.

5. Development tests on air-to-air guided missiles have yielded good results.

6. The government's intention to equip RCAF auxiliary squadrons with CF-100 jets is being reconsidered.

Senators in Uproar
Over Pension Plan
For Common-Law Wives
(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

Government legislation to allow pensions under certain conditions for common-law wives of Canadian servicemen was described Wednesday in the Senate as "subsidization of adultery" and a "flouting of God's laws."

Led by Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader, five senators—including two Liberals—spoke strongly against the bill in a debate lasting almost two hours.

Finally, on a motion by Senator J. J. Kinney (L-Nova Scotia), the Senate unanimously rejected a report from its banking and commerce committee which studied the measure but made no amendments. It sent the bill back to the committee with instructions that it be studied further.

The verbal storm blew up

'Terrible', Says B.C. Liberal

"It's terrible," echoed Senator Thomas Reid (L-British Columbia).

Senator Haig said it cut him to the heart to even participate in making such laws. He would not "degrade the womanhood of this country by permitting women like that to live in adultery for seven years and get away with it."

Senator Felix Quinn (PC-Nova Scotia) said the clause "flouts God's law" outlawing adultery. The lawmakers were simply "matching their wisdom with the wisdom of God who gave us the Ten Commandments which all Christians are obliged to obey."

Senator Reid said common-law wives are common enough without legalizing them.

Senator Walter Asetline (PC-Saskatchewan) said the proposed legislation is simply "subsidizing adultery."

Senator Salter Hayden (L-Ontario), chairman of the committee which studied the bill, urged the senators to keep the clause in perspective. He said similar regulations are contained in the Pensions Act, the Veterans' Allowance Act, and the dependents' allowance regulations.

The treasury board would have power to rule whether a serviceman's common-law wife got a pension and the board would not condone adultery in the ordinary sense.

Danger of Political Patronage

A Progressive Conservative charge that the senate library of Parliament may become touched by political patronage has been coupled with a demand that strict professional standards govern future appointments to the job of chief librarian.

Margaret Aitken (PC-York-Humber) said in the Commons Wednesday that unless future librarians are required to have a university degree in library science, the parliamentary library could become a political plum.

Citizenship Minister Pickersgill, a former history professor, said a degree isn't all-important. He added that past Conservative governments have been prone to hand good jobs in the library to their political supporters.

The House adjourned before reaching a decision on Miss Aitken's proposal, put forward as an amendment to a government bill dealing with future appointments of parliamentary librarians.

The library bill would establish a single head of the parliamentary library, with an associate librarian, in place of the present joint administration by two men.

It would take effect with the retirement of either of the present heads, Felix Desrochers, 69, general librarian, and F. A. Hardy, 63, parliamentary librarian. Both have the rank of deputy minister.

The Commons Wednesday completed detailed study of a massive bill consolidating various statutes governing the publicly-owned CNR, but only after a dispute over whether the bill maintains provincial control of the railway's bus and trucking operations.

Opposition leader Drew said one section of the measure puts CNR highway business outside provincial jurisdiction. He asked that the bill be held up pending a meeting with provincial representatives.

Transport Minister Marler said provincial control, as intended by the federal government, is assured.

Conservatives forced a vote on the disputed section, which was approved, 54 to 31.

An agreement providing for joint CNR-CPR operation of a steamship service between Vancouver and Prince Rupert, B.C., was protested Wednesday by the Progressive Conservatives' transport critic.

Howard Green (Vancouver-Quadra) said the crew of the CNR steamship Prince Rupert received "shabby treatment" under the agreement. The ship was taken out of service and replaced by a CPR vessel now being operated jointly by the two companies.

Mr. Green said the crew of the vessel now operating is

'Go Now, Pay Later'
Plans Boost Travel

By DAVE STOCK
Times Business Editor

A well-planned and well-directed campaign to spur North American interest in far-away places is having a marked effect on the travel business.

Canadians and Americans have been subjected to a raft of fascinating material designed to stimulate a desire to visit foreign lands where people dress differently, speak a different language and observe different customs.

So well has the promotion campaign worked that the urge to travel has hit people in all walks of life and at all levels of income. And this has led to several innovations with regard to financing long journeys abroad.

The person who plans a trip far enough in advance is encouraged to enrol in a "vacation savings program." Those who get a sudden urge to get away from it all are encouraged to do so without delay and finance the trip under a "pay later plan."

PAN AM. PIONEERED

The major airlines which serve as international carriers have promoted the pay-later plan. It was pioneered in the United States by Pan American World Airways and has been copied by many other lines.

Pan American recently extended this privilege to Canadians, and travel agents in Victoria report the scheme is attracting interest here. Actually, Pan American was not first with the scheme in Canada. Scandinavian Air Lines was first, having a financing arrangement with the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Pan American's scheme in Canada is operated through Personal Finance Co. of Canada. Actually, the financing becomes a direct arrangement between the traveller and the finance company, and the interest charge runs to about 13.5 per cent.

Black to Study Demands of
B.C. Employees

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said today the government will study a demand for increased wages and arbitration rights made before the cabinet Tuesday by a delegation from the B.C. Government Employees' Association.

The delegation requested a general wage survey, on grounds civil servants' wages in some classifications are up to 10 per cent less than in industry.

The demands, approved by the BCGEA convention at Nanaimo last fall included one asking for implementation of the Rand Formula, for compulsory deduction of association dues from all civil servants' wages.

Strawberry Vale Pupils
Win in CNE Art Contest

Pupils in Grades One to Six at Victoria's Strawberry Vale School are sharing honors awarded by judges of an art competition now being displayed at Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition.

A report from that city says Whitehorse, Yukon; Yellowknife, N.W.T.; Salt Spring, B.C., and Strawberry Vale School in Victoria received highest points.

The Whitehorse School was awarded a $100 prize for a mural.

Strawberry Vale sent a mural and 18 individual pictures.

Art teacher Mrs. Marian Small said today that the latter were of the highest standards. Principal R. H. Jones said the school was "very proud."

Judges, headed by Sydney R. Watson, principal of the Ontario College of Art, said entries were generally better than in other years.

Titles were as fanciful as the art in many cases. They included, "My Puppy Following Giraffes," "Our Baby Is in the Playpen" and "My Mother Pulls My Brown Slacks Over Breeches."

Forest Licence Plan Seen Vital To Dying Kootenay Tree Industry

NELSON (CP) — There is only one major logging and milling operation left on Kootenay lake, Robert B. Walkley told the Sloan commission on forestry at hearings in Nelson.

"All other forest products enterprises (on the lake) have either gone out of business through lack of economic supply of sawlogs or have been forced into bankruptcy through excessive costs of operation," he said.

Mr. Walkley of Kootenay Forest Products, Limited, the firm still in business, occupied the witness stand for five hours and in reply to questions said he favored perpetuity in forest management licences.

His reason was that there was a "pride of enterprise factor" and likened the situation to home ownership.

At the first day of sittings, Henry Merton, small operator of Edgewood, said he did not favor the perpetual clause.

In a 4,500-word brief, Mr. Walkley mentioned several Kootenay lake operations which have ceased operations in the last few decades for financial reasons.

He agreed with R. M. Howard, counsel for B.C. industries, that a public hearing to decide who would get forest management licences would be preferable to the provincial cabinet making the decision as is now the case.

It would be "in the best interests of the people," said Mr. Walkley. Mr. Howard questioned whether Kootenay Forest Products needed a forest management licence since it had survived in the area where others failed.

Mr. Walkley said the company did not "need" a licence but needed assurance of a supply of timber to carry on expanding operations.

New Loan Policy Pleases Premier

Wood Gundy and Co. Tuesday submitted the highest bid for $1,000,000 in short-term notes maturing December 30 for the PGE, Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced.

The notes were sold at a price of 99.06022, or at a yield of slightly more than 1.74 per cent annually.

The sale represents a departure in government financing for short-term loans, involving the calling of tenders, from investment houses.

Formerly, short-term borrowings were made through the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and no tenders were called. Interest rates varied from three to slightly more than two per cent.

"This is the first sale of guaranteed notes of this kind, and the price had to be further evidence of the high esteem in which the credit rating of provincial guarantees is held by the market," the premier said.

ANEURIN BEVAN'S WIFE FINED IN CAR MISHAP

CHESHAM, England (Reuters) — Jennie Lee, Labor member of Parliament and wife of left-wing Labor leader Aneurin Bevan, was fined £10 Wednesday for careless driving. She pleaded guilty to mounting a sidewalk in her husband's car and pinning a pedestrian against a wall.

Minister Talks Girl Off High Level Bridge

Rescued Woman Says She Was Just Waving Goodbye to Boy Friend Aboard Magnificent

HALIFAX (CP) — An unidentified young woman was brought down from a dangerous position on the Halifax harbor bridge today after police handcuffed her to a clergyman who had tried to convince her not to jump. She was taken to a hospital psychiatric ward for observation.

The minister climbed up to where the woman was standing on the outer edge of a span 50 feet above the navy dockyard. He said later he isn't sure whether she planned to leap from the bridge or simply wanted to wave goodbye to a sailor friend on the aircraft carrier Magnificent.

Traffic in the bridge area piled up for half a mile and hundreds of persons watched as Rev. Ralph Hobson of the Reformed Baptist Church went out to talk to the woman.

CAME DOWN SOBBING
Mr. Hobson said she told him she was on the girder to wave goodbye to a sailor on the Magnificent which sailed shortly after she came down sobbing. Hospital authorities said she is resting quietly.

"I clasped her hand and we had a word of prayer," Mr. Hobson said afterwards. "She was crying and talking quite freely. She explained to me she had no intention of jumping and that she was just sitting out there to watch the Maggie leave with her sailor friend on board."

The woman, dressed in a shortie coat and grey slacks, said she was married. Her husband was at sea and while he was at sea she had become infatuated with the sailor.

UPSET BY ENTANGLEMENT
"She seemed upset because of her emotional entanglements," he said.

He managed to grasp her hand after she promised she did not plan to jump. Then Halifax police chief Verduin Mitchell, who had been lying on his stomach out of sight a few feet away, slipped handcuffs over her wrists.

USE SAFETY BELT
Two bridge employees then went over the protective screen and strapped the woman in a safety belt and brought her back onto the bridge.

A few minutes before she had told Mr. Hobson: "I'll not jump, and come down quietly if the crowd goes away." She talked with Mr. Hobson, pastor of the Reformed Baptist

Mulligan Denies Police Scandal

'Corruption' Charge Author May Be Sued By Vancouver Chief

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police Chief Walter Mulligan said Wednesday night that charges of corruption in the Vancouver police department are "a deliberate planned attempt to undermine me and my administration."

He made the statement in an interview following a closed-door meeting with the city police commission to discuss the charges, which were made in the Vancouver edition of Flash, a Toronto weekly tabloid.

Chief Mulligan also said he has made an appointment with his lawyer to discuss the question of taking legal action against the publication. "I will go by whatever the lawyer advises me," he said.

EVERY CONFIDENCE
Mayor Fred Hume, chairman of the three-man commission, said in a brief statement following the closed meeting that another meeting may be held at police headquarters late today to discuss the situation in greater detail.

"I have every confidence in Chief Mulligan," he said. The charges appeared in what the weekly said was the first of a series of articles on the Vancouver force. The allegations included "moral misconduct by police officers" and "Vancouver's king gambler fixes police."

It also said the series would tell "how the syndicate captured city hall." Said Mayor Hume: "I would be very interested to know how the syndicate mentioned in the story captured city hall. I never heard of it, nor do I believe it."

Chief Mulligan said he believed "certain persons" had fed information to the tabloid to undermine him.

"I have some pretty good information as to how this whole matter came to this publication," he said. "I have a good idea where it came from."

"In fact I'm hoping to go after that source."

"This thing, I believe, has been planned for a long time. I am convinced it is a deliberate attempt to undermine me and my administration."

TRADE BILL PASSED BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress today gave President Eisenhower new tariff-cutting powers, completing action on one of the key measures of his legislative program.

Senate approved a compromise foreign trade bill, largely carrying out the president's desires, sent the measure to the White House.

The House of Representatives passed the bill Tuesday 347 to 54. The Senate acted by voice vote.

The bill gives the president new power to cut tariffs 15 per cent during a three-year period and to lower to 50 per cent all rates now above that figure.

CANADIAN GM WARNED

Guaranteed Pay Pact — Or 18,000 Strike

TORONTO (BUP) — Eighteen thousand employees of General Motors of Canada may be called out on strike unless the company grants the guaranteed annual wage this year.

The warning was served Wednesday by George Burt, Canadian director of the CIO United Auto Workers union which he said is ready to throw its $25,000,000 strike fund behind its Canadian wing.

The international fund, growing at the rate of $5,000,000 a month, was started earlier this year by tacking an extra $5 a month onto union dues. Its immediate purpose was to win the guaranteed wage from the Ford and GM plants in the United States but strike action was unnecessary there and the fund remains untapped.

Burt said the union's first fight for the guaranteed wage in Canada will be waged with General Motors.

Three other demands to be served on GM include a company-paid health plan, a full union shop and elimination of the wage differential between GM and other auto industry companies.

New Look at the Race Track

LATEST DISCUSSIONS ON THE proposed race track and park development between the east shore of Beaver Lake and the Pat Bay highway appear to have cleared the air.

Racing interests have explained their plans more definitely and the project looks more attractive.

As one official pointed out, local resistance may be expected to decline when the residents of the district are assured that no high fence will be erected, spoiling the view of homeowners nearby, and when it is understood that development would be undertaken along park lines.

Authorities have pointed out that race tracks need not be eyesores. Some of the backers of the proposal have made it clear that they would not countenance any replica of the shabby buildings at the old Willows. They contend that the Beaver Lake site lends itself to racing establishments in the attractive English tradition. They add that athletic facilities in the infield would be a boon to the district which now lacks them.

Apart from their particular interest in racing, the sponsors suggest other grounds for reconsideration of the whole issue. They note the wide demand here for the re-establishment of a first class exhibition and point out that fairs of this nature require racing for the financial backing it provides.

As the negotiations now stand, two points emerge in sharp focus. First, any development in the Beaver Lake area should—and sponsors say it would—follow park lines in keeping with, and adding to the attractions of, the Elk-Beaver Lake natural recreational area. And second, the city and Saanich must reach accord before there can be any hope of success for the scheme.

New facts have been presented. The public should be informed, as should planning agencies, so their opinions may be based on fuller knowledge. Certainly consideration should be given to the latest arguments expressed by those favoring a race track and exhibition before any decision is rendered.

The case can be stated simply. This community has shown a desire to see the exhibition restored. Many of the citizens want racing for itself, others because they realize it is needed to make the fair a financial possibility. No one wants to see the Elk-Beaver Lake area destroyed. But if a part of it can be developed for community benefit, with the addition of specific attractions and without sacrificing the attractiveness of the countryside, the project has much to commend it.

A Bomb at the Junction

ALTHOUGH YESTERDAY'S continent-wide civil defence test was primarily for official personnel—a check of communication and co-ordination facilities—it served to remind the public once more that war in the atomic era is a matter for consideration by every community.

P. i. n. pointing a hypothetical atomic bomb at a location such as the Oak Bay Junction drives home in a personal way a realization of the modern sword of Damocles under which every city lives today. From such a well known spot one can calculate the area of total destruction, partial destruction and lethal radioactive effect that would result from the explosion of a real bomb.

Circles can be drawn to show these areas; the citizen can locate his home, his place of business and those of his relatives and friends, and calculate what the chances of survival might be. They would not be great.

They will be even less if some form of practical civil defence—of evacuation or refuge in shelters or whatever it may be—is not soon perfected and made a part of each resident's consciousness.

There should be no disposition to set up a constant cry of wolf, to strive to make the public live with hunched shoulders and gritted teeth, waiting for the sirens. But if chaos and panic are to be avoided if and when war comes, everyone should have some idea of what is to be done and how it is to be accomplished.

At the moment the public is far from knowing the answers to these two questions. Public lethargy, disbelief, fatalism, all are a part of the picture. But they are not answers to the problem.

As every family should have a plan tucked away in the back of the mind for use if the home catches fire, so every citizen should have a background program for action if his city is attacked. For Victorians, what exactly is it?

Rebound From McCarthy

UP TO A LITTLE MORE THAN a year ago Leroy Gore was known to his own community and a relatively restricted public as the editor of the Sauk-Prairie Star of Sauk City, Wisconsin.

Then Mr. Gore, a Republican and one-time supporter of Senator Joseph McCarthy, rebelled against the McCarthy philosophy and the McCarthy technique. He launched the widely publicized "Joe Must Go" campaign aimed at the senator's recall. It failed in the legal sense and it lodged Mr. Gore in serious trouble.

The district attorney of Sauk City instituted proceedings against the "Joe Must Go" organization and its officers and the circuit judge reluctantly found the movement guilty of violating the state corrupt practices act for having chosen the corporate form of organization. Fines were imposed, the editor and his associates were placed under abortive criminal indictments, and Mr. Gore was subject to local retaliation.

But the picture changed. The district attorney was swept out of office in the election, criminal charges were dismissed, and the Supreme Court has recently handed down the unanimous decision that cleared the "Joe Must Go" committee of violating the corrupt practices act.

Here is a case in which opposition to McCarthy has won its own accolade.

In this day of McCarthy eclipse, however, one point should be kept in mind. While fair-minded people have turned with repugnance from McCarthy and his techniques, it must be realized that all who came under his vicious assault were not necessarily Galahads merely because he attacked them. Many of McCarthy's former victims find themselves in good company, but that doesn't make them all knights in shining armour.

For Progress With the Atom

THE AGREEMENTS BETWEEN Canada and the United States for greater co-operation in nuclear research mark an important step forward in the atomic age. Similar agreements were completed between Britain and Belgium, on the one hand, and Washington on the other.

One agreement provides for exchange of information on peacetime uses of the atom. Since such information has been offered by the United States to numerous other countries the move does not represent any change in American policy. But the second agreement is of a different nature. It covers methods of defence against atomic and hydrogen bomb attacks and is a logical follow-up to Canada's representation by observers at the recent Nevada bomb tests.

As a defensive measure the second agreement should lead to closer integration of North American preparations against attack. Since the military air defences are already in close co-operation—the radar detection lines in Canada manned by U.S. crews, the dovetailing of Canadian and U.S. air forces in continental defence, to name only two examples—it was to be expected that there should also be close sharing of atomic knowledge in the defence field.

It will be noted that the agreements are concerned with co-operation, that is, that Canada will also provide the United States with information. Although this country's atomic research has been devoted exclusively to peaceful uses, its progress has been considerable. Canada is one of the very few nations of the world that can enter into a mutual atomic sharing agreement with the United States which is of practical value to both partners.

Research at Chalk River, Ontario, has made important contributions to man's knowledge of atomic power. It is gratifying to know that a greater sharing of discoveries will speed our exploitation of the new force.

The Scotsman's Town

NIAGARA: Early in the nineteenth century a poor Scottish family sailed up the St. Lawrence. A son of seven years must have found Kingston familiar.

It looked just like a town in Scotland. Such was young John A. Macdonald's first view of Upper Canadian civilization.

Kingston has grown into a thriving little city but it still retains a haunting memory of its greatest citizen. Built of limestone from the nearby southward thrust of the Canadian Shield, it remains a town with a grim Scottish face, somewhat softened by a cascade of green elms, among which Macdonald, in bronze and Windsor uniform, faces the lake.

PERHAPS the most spacious contemporary mind in all Canada lives not far from Kingston. Naturally, therefore, I consulted Professor Arthur Lower, the distinguished Canadian historian, whose book "Colony to Nation" is easily the best work of the sort ever produced in this country.

Relaxed at his country place on the edge of the lake, the professor hazarded the guess that the uniform, square, clean architecture of this region was the work of Scots masons, who, having finished the construction of the Rideau Canal, were looking for any work they could find. So they built the gray masterpiece of Kingston and made it forever unique.

The stone of these parts, by the way—the flag end of the Shield which covers the larger part of the nation—is so hard and refractory that Alexander Mackenzie, an obscure Scots mason, gave up his trade in despair and became the second prime minister of Canada.

IF HARD, THE STONE is beautiful and makes probably the best houses ever built in this country. They stand out now in Kingston and in countless little towns quite distinct from the brick-and-wooden stuff ushered in by the mid-Victorians. Among such houses is one of natural interest to this reporter. I found it after some search in Prescott. No man, I suppose, looks at the house where he was born and his people lived a century and a half ago without some feeling of the past.

Time could not destroy the old house with its walls two feet thick but man had not been so kind. To my horror a home of many memories had been turned into an undertaking parlor. So I left Prescott at a rapid speed.

DOWN THE RIVER by Iroquois and Morrisburg man is preparing other changes. Lush farm lands and whole villages are to be flooded there when the St. Lawrence seaway is built. The inhabitants, some of them descendants of the original Empire Loyalists, are saddened by the approaching destruction of their homes. This, they say, is inevitable and all in the interests of progress, whatever that may be.

Happily the St. Lawrence is so big that man's canals and power dams will make only a tiny scratch or two on its banks.

It is useless to look at the map and try to grasp the size of this mighty gash from the Atlantic to Lake Ontario. You must drive along it day after day, as I have done, from its beginning in the foggy gulf to its end at Kingston, that focal point where the first great soldier of Canada, Frontenac, wisely built his fort of Cataragui. Even when you have reached the eastern end of Lake Ontario the river system has only made a good beginning in its search for the vitals of the continent.

ALL TODAY I followed the lake's shore, to Toronto, to Hamilton and finally down to the Niagara country which, if there were time, I could prove to be the most arresting spectacle in Canada.

After such a day of driving (especially through the traffic of Toronto and among the maze of roads in which I got completely lost near Hamilton and traveled for two hours in a circle) it must suffice to say that, beside this surging growth of tree and vine our Okanagan, though I dearly love it, is only a narrow line of green across the sage brush. But I'd better close this dispatch before Premier Bennett and the Kelowna Board of Trade discover my whereabouts.

Ten Years of the U.N.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN, From Washington

THERE WOULD BE no such celebration, as the world will be seeing next week in San Francisco, if in these 10 years the United Nations had not proved themselves to be a universal and indispensable institution.

Nothing that can be said by the statesmen who will be there is so eloquent as the fact that these statesmen are there—that no government has wished that no government would have dared to refuse to come. There are still many governments waiting, hoping, and working to be admitted into the United Nations. There is none that would like to resign.

Among those who follow these things there are to be sure, few in any country who are not critical of this or that in the organization or in the specific acts of the United Nations. There are, likewise, few Americans who agree with all the policies and actions of the American government.

But those who would like to leave the United Nations, or wish to see the society dissolved, are no more than an eccentric minority.

No member has threatened to resign if it could not prevail. And none has been threatened with expulsion if it did not conform to the views of the others. This reflects, I believe, something new in human history, and something of great significance: namely, the presence throughout mankind of a will that the sovereign governments shall preserve the universal society.

HUMAN INTEREST

This sentiment, so imponderable and yet so compelling, is not due to the triumphs that have been put to them. The United Nations have not solved all their problems; not by any means.

The general human will to maintain the United Nations is due to the feeling, almost one might say to the instinct, of the great masses of mankind that beyond and above the cold war, the ideological war, the armaments race, and the revolutions, there is a supreme and universal human interest.

This supreme and universal human interest is that issues must never be let reach a point where conflict is irreparable and inextinguishable. For humanity has rights that mankind must compel all governments to respect and to defend.

That the United Nations have come through the past 10 years, and that membership is now prized in every nation, is—if one stands off and looks at it—extraordinary. There have been 10 dangerous years. The world is rent by the cold war—which is perhaps the deepest, widest, and bitterest schism within the peoples of the world since the long struggle between Islam and Christendom.

And with this cold war, alongside of it, as part of it, and at times overriding it, we have been living amidst the epoch-making rise of the peoples of Africa and Asia, and their emergence as new sovereign powers among the powers of the world.

DEEP CHANGES

In the whole of our recorded history there have been few periods, perhaps no period, when so many peoples have been involved in such deep changes in the ways of their life, or engaged in such a diversity of conflicts. It is astounding, therefore, that the universal society of the United Nations survives, and that it is, if anything, more deeply rooted, more tenaciously adhered to, than it was 10 years ago.

In human experience this is not the first enormous ideological schism when men were prepared to kill and be killed. Nor is this the first period of widespread revolution.

But this is the first time when in such an age of troubles there has been a truly universal society to which all the antagonists have adhered, or have wished to adhere. That is something without precedent. It is something that is not to be taken for granted but is to be regarded with wonder and with hope.

This is, I believe, the great conclusion to be drawn on the 10th anniversary of the United Nations. But, of course, these 10 years have put many ideas, principles and institutions of the United Nations to many different practical tests. In another article I shall venture to put down some of the things which I believe experience has taught us.

ON THE OTTAWA SCENE

Commons Members Raise an Eye at Recent Military Shifts

Lt-GEN. GUY SIMONDS' term as chief of the general staff expired in February this year after he had served "the customary four years" in that post. He was asked to stay on until the summer to enable the new defence minister, Ralph Campney, to complete arrangements for a successor. The government decided against extending the four-year term for another four years partly to prevent the establishment of a precedent.

It might be said that the government was hard to break, and partly because it was mutually agreed that the appointment of a new man as chief of the general staff might help resolve some of the differences of opinion that had gradually grown up between the government and the former chief of the general staff.

Suggestions that Lt-Gen. Simonds was "fired" had no foundation. He was not abruptly dismissed over differences that had developed. It had been agreed some time ago he would be retired after his four years were up and he agreed to go on leave pending his retirement from the army.

PROMOTION?

Opposition members in the House have demanded an explanation of why Gen. Simonds did not follow in the footsteps of Gen. C. Foulkes, chairman of the chiefs of staff. Gen. Foulkes after serving his term as chief of the general staff, moved up the ladder to the office of chairman of the chiefs of staff. There has been speculation over the reason why Gen. Simonds was not promoted into that top spot.

The explanation is a simple one. The position now occupied by Gen. Foulkes requires a man of a temperamental suited to diplomacy and capable of practising the fine art of diplomatic give and take during international discussions. Gen. Foulkes at NATO has demonstrated his ability to handle that job with finesse.

Gen. Simonds on the other hand is a soldier's soldier, capable of fast decisions, frank, outspoken, decisive and inflexible in his viewpoint once he had assessed a situation and made up his mind. By the very nature of his character and training he would not fit into the role now filled by Gen. Foulkes, in the government's view.

DEBATE

There is a suspicion in the minds of the opposition members that the changes in the general staff are an indication all is not going well with the Government's defence policies. They intend to pursue the matter further when Mr. Campney's estimates come under study in the House. This could extend the session well into another week and may mean the House will not rise until the first or second week in July.

WEIGHT MARKED

It gives me considerable satisfaction to receive phone calls from two interested parties re: "The weight of the standard loaf of bread." It being pointed out to me that, "so long as the wrapper bears the mark of the weight of the loaf contained therein, this conforms to the legal requirement as it now stands."

I must confess to all that they appear to be right. I have hunted for the particular piece of legislation in the records of the Legislature in Victoria, and it cannot be located, so something is not very satisfactory somewhere.

A letter, received from the Attorney-General's office, dated September 10, 1952. File M 265-3 clearly states: "You will notice that the City has not fixed the weight at which bread may be sold, but merely requires that the weight of bread enclosed be indicated on the wrapper."

By VICTOR J. MACKIE

Party by the North Sea

(This is the fourth in a series of articles on Canadian Pacific Airlines' first polar flight to Amsterdam.)

ON OUR second evening in Holland we were driven from The Hague—where Canada maintains a truly beautiful embassy—to a seaside town which I can hardly spell, let alone pronounce. I believe its name is Schveningen. It is a resort spot on the North Sea, perhaps 30 miles from Amsterdam, and not unlike Brighton or Blackpool in appearance.

The pronunciation of this name is something that only the Dutch can master. It is a combination sneeze, bark and war-hoop, with the letter "R" in-credibly sneaking into the first syllable.

This fact became important during the Nazi occupation. Because no German could correctly pronounce the name, the Dutch underground adopted it as a password. Any deviation from the accepted Dutch pronunciation branded the speaker as an obvious interloper.

It was here, at a dinner tendered by the fine Dutch airline, KLM, that we learned something of the affection their people hold for Canadians... and for their own Queen Juliana. We were seated on a glassed-in porch, facing the sea, but the banquet board was surrounded by tables occupied by holidaying Dutch families. Thus they were in a position to overhear the toasts and speeches by dignitaries of both Canada and Holland.

The first toast—by Mr. L. H. Slotemaker, the vice-president of KLM—was to Queen Elizabeth. In reply, Canada's ambassador to The Hague, Mr. Thomas A. Stone (of Chatham, Ontario) asked the Canadians to stand and drink a toast to the much-loved Queen Juliana.

At this juncture, the Dutch people sitting at nearby tables could not restrain themselves.

Though they were not of the party, they broke out in spontaneous applause for this gesture of friendship!

Seated opposite me was an official of Holland's civil aviation. Early in the evening he turned towards the sea, where a beautiful sunset was descending on the calm waters, and said: "There you have the Dutch people—serene and placid. It is true that we are great artists. We love beauty. But we have not much music in us, nor much humor."

Then he fixed me with a steady gaze. "You are, sir, I believe, a writer? Then write this for the Canadian people: 'We love Canadians with all our hearts. We can never forget that 35,000 Canadians suffered and died to liberate our country. 'If a man came into our court for committing a murder—you will excuse me for this, please—and he told the judge he was a Canadian, the judge would shrug his shoulders and say: 'So what? So you are a Canadian? So you can go free.'"

Under the inspiration of much rich food and many fine wines, this genial party progressed famously. In the background, a four-piece orchestra played wild Hungarian dances, alternating—incredibly—with some New York-style jazz in the authentic idiom of 52nd Street.

Most intriguing aspect of all this was an instrument I'd never seen before. It looked like an open box of piano strings, and was being effectively assaulted by a young man with two sticks whose ends seemed to be draped in cotton-wool. As near as I could gather, (phonetically) it was called a "zymp-bolla" and it produced sounds you could lose in a pool of petroleum.

As we left the pavilion to catch our bus back to Amsterdam, I spied our Dutch civil aviation friend out on the dance floor—the same man who had said "we have no music in us." He was swinging his lively blonde wife around the floor in a distinctly athletic version of "Tea for Two!"

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

Len Tremayne

I LIKE the pepped-up "Punch" we're getting nowadays. It seems to me a lot more barbed and a lot more fun since Malcolm Muggeridge took it over. I particularly like the May 11 issue which reached me in meandering, round-about fashion, last week-end.

There are two pages in it that I'd like to send to all our MLAs, to anyone who's ever stood for political office, and to anyone who's ever had to listen to people standing for political office. Which covers quite a number of Victorians.

For I fancy that these pages "To the Electors of the Mid-Gloamshire Division" would delight them. (Or possibly dismay!) They proudly present "Len Tremayne—Your Conservative Candidate." And there's a picture of Len Tremayne, "The Man You Are Asked to Vote For!"

It's one of the funniest pictures I have ever seen.

There's also a family-group picture of Mrs. Tremayne, her son BERT (24) and daughter SHEILA (22). Their faces, attitudes, clothes and expression seem to me exactly right.

The picture's really awfully cruel, but, gosh, it's funny.

Mrs. Tremayne has a message for the voters.

"Dear Voters," she says, "you cannot, of course, know my husband as intimately as I do, but if you did you would have no hesitation in wanting him at Westminster."

"As a housewife I can speak from the woman's viewpoint, and I have only to think of all that Conservatism has done for us women, such as their Colonial Self-Government reforms and better and cheaper butcher's meat, to know that they have us very much at heart, bless them!"

"... if you elect my husband, you will, in a way, elect me and Bert and Sheila too, as we are heart and soul in Conservatism all three

"So don't forget, will you, on the 26th? My hubby won't let you down."

Len Tremayne has a personal message for the voters, too, in which he says that old people and children will be his party's special care, with particular regard to age-groups between the two.

He has, naturally, something to say about the past and the future. "The past is past, the future is yet to come. Is our great nation to go smoothly forward along the prime path, to the broad peaceful parkland of contentment and ease, where the worker at the end of still shorter weeks, bears home a still bulkier pay-package? Or etc., etc., etc."

There's a bit about "Len Tremayne—the man!" (He's driven for more than 30 years with a clean licence. His hobbies are public speaking and waste-paper collection.)

There's Len Tremayne's Profession of Faith, signed in a handwriting that's typically Tremayne.

There's a lovely little piece called "What They Say." Mrs. Purdew (79), the Coffee Shoppe, Pillingsham, gives her opinion. So does H. Fobb (15), Sports Captain, Pillingsham Mixed School.

These pages to the electors of the Mid-Gloamshire Division don't exactly drip with the milk of human kindness.

But this sort of humor sharpens the wits of the electors. It also helps political candidates to avoid some of the more obvious pitfalls.

I wish we had more of this sort of thing in Canada. We don't rib our politicians half enough. Intelligent humor can cut a politician down to size faster than any other method that I know.

If you can, do track down a copy of this issue of Punch, and just look quietly at that picture of Len Tremayne.

Isn't it wicked? And isn't it funny?

'MILD RECESSION' ENDED, SAYS HARRIS

MURRAY BAY, Que. (BP)—Canada's economy is rapidly snapping out of a mild recession that hit it in the past 18 months, Finance Minister Walter Harris said today.

Harris told the annual meeting of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada that economic developments of the past 10 weeks had borne out his optimistic forecasts when he brought down the budget April 5.

"There is no doubt that the Canadian economy is rapidly pulling out of the rather mild recession which we have been experiencing over the past 18 months or so," he said.

Even CD Director Unaware 'Bomb' Dropped on Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A simulated atomic bomb killed a theoretical 17,000 persons here Wednesday, but it took the civil defence organization nearly three hours to hear about it.

The bomb was dropped, according to Victoria area headquarters plans, on Shaughnessy Golf Club here at 11:30 a.m.

Air Vice-Marshal F. V. Heakes, commanding civil defence in the Vancouver area, said his group didn't hear about it officially until 2:20 p.m.

"Our first word was through the press, when a reporter telephoned us to give us the news," he said.

He said the alert came shortly before 11:30 and his headquarters was moved to an outlying gravel pit. The sheltered position cut off communications which weren't here.

Colwood Bingo Party Planned for June 24

COLWOOD—Colwood Community Club will hold a bingo game at Colwood Hall June 24, with proceeds to augment the general fund.

Door prizes and refreshments will be included in the price of admission.

At a recent meeting of the group, $25 was donated to the Boy Scouts for their jamboree fund. Several boys in the district plan to attend the event at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont.

Prisoner Road Work Gets Cautious Okay

Partial support to a government proposal to employ Oakalla Prison inmates on Garibaldi Park road construction this summer was given by two Victoria labor-leaders today.

T. C. Gooderham, Vancouver Island representative for the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said the plan held value as a form of rehabilitation, but cautioned it could cause friction in trade union circles.

Two sides were also seen by Percy Rayment, secretary of Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

PAY FOR UPKEEP

"On the one hand such work would help pay for the upkeep of prisoners," he said, "and on the other hand, it would deprive those construction workers who are not in jail of their livelihood."

"It would certainly be a break for some prisoners in their rehabilitation," said Mr. Gooderham.

"But the plan must be handled carefully or it will cause a lot of friction in trade union circles. I hope it doesn't get out of hand because a lot of contractors need laborers for road construction, and the province needs a lot of road construction. "It isn't going to help the unemployment picture, but neither is the flood of new Canadians into the province."

He said a suitable formula should be arrived at to help these people to get rehabilitated and to assure employment both to Canadians and immigrants under the presently maintained good conditions B.C. construction companies provide.

"There should also be protection for the employer," Mr. Gooderham.

Fourteen Die in Crash Of Brazil Airliner

Big Craft Goes Down Preparing to Land; Five Passengers, Two Crewmen Survive

ASUNCION, Paraguay (UP)—A Panair Do Brasil Constellation en route from Rio de Janeiro to Buenos Aires crashed just outside Asuncion early today, while preparing to land.

At least 14 persons among the 21 passengers and crew members aboard were killed.

Among the passengers saved were a married couple, an Austrian and a Paraguayan named Augusto Franco. One crew member also was reported saved.

(Panair offices in Rio De Janeiro said one of the passengers unaccounted for was John Dowling, Time Magazine correspondent in Buenos Aires, who boarded the plane at Sao Paulo for Asuncion.)

The crash occurred at 1:15 a.m. as the plane circled for a landing seven and a half miles from Asuncion, near the Paraguay River.

Panair announced in Rio De Janeiro that five passengers and two crewmen survived the crash and were hospitalized at Asuncion. The plane was destroyed.

Duo Piano Performance 'Delights'

Young Artists Draw Full House

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Aside from well-matched technical attainment, the art of duo piano performance requires that the piano partners submerge their individuality in order to provide a uniform and complete interpretation. They must, in other words, look through the same window at the same view and be able to record it in similar terms.

In the two-piano recital presented before a capacity audience at the Art Gallery Wednesday night, the artists—Malcolm Hamilton of Victoria and Robert Phillips of Seattle—were obviously on just such excellent terms with their music and with each other.

Both young men have graduated this spring from the University of Washington School of Music. Mr. Hamilton majoring in organ and harpsichord and Mr. Phillips in piano and organ. The recital was given under the auspices of the Royal Schools of Music Association.

PLEASANTLY MODERN

Their program, with its pleasantly modern flavor, was well chosen and presented with a freshness and vitality, a sincerity of purpose, that provided a thoroughly stimulating evening. The pair settled comfortably into their double harness after a slightly tense opening and gave their audience a particularly beautiful large—thoughtful and well sustained—in the Bach Sonata No. 5 in C major.

A tour de force was the Chopin Rondo in C major for two pianos. This music, which so impressively highlighted the virtuosic capabilities of the two young artists, was also pleasing in its revelation of their tonal color and dynamic equality.

NOTABLE CARPETS

Graceful phrases, pastel tones and well defined mood were notable aspects of their performance of a Debussy Suite. Each part was approached with such clarity of understanding as to fully illuminate its character, from the gentle swaying and dreaming of "En bateau," to the delicate grace of "Menuet" and the color and movement of "Ballet."

Two technically stupendous movements from a Rachmaninoff Suite for Two Pianos, which were presented with broad, sweeping effects, and three contrasted preludes by Gershwin, completed the program.

The pianist's excellent sense of rhythm, their control and coordination in the latter syncopated brevities brought a delighted response from the audience, and three encores were added.

GIRLS PARTLY TO BLAME

Judge Asks Substitute For Ineffective Curfew

VANCOUVER (CP)—An Appeal Court magistrate Wednesday called for "some substitute" for an old-fashioned curfew in an effort to cut down the number of moral offences involving young girls.

Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran, in reducing a morals charge sentence against Ray Galloway, 22, said girls "must bear a certain part of the blame."

Galloway was charged with indecent assault involving a 14-year-old girl, and was sentenced to two years and five strokes of the paddle. The sentence was reduced to one year definite and one year less one year indefinite, with no paddle.

"Certainly a 14-year-old girl should not be out at two and three a.m., and drinking into the bargain," he said.

He said an "aroused public opinion might find some way to meet a situation which undoubtedly is growing dangerously among our young people."

"In the more old fashioned days," he said, "they had a curfew. Perhaps some substitute can be found for it to protect the young people."

DO LANA'S CURVES CROWD BOX OFFICE?

Is Show or Sex Hollywood God? Kefauver Wants Moguls To Say

By JAME BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The movies' big bosses, most of them blunt-talking men, were slated to tangle with a United States Senate sub-committee today on charges that a score of recent movies have stressed too much sex and violence. Lana Turner's costuming, or lack of it, also was on the agenda.

The sub-committee investigating juvenile delinquency expected to hear from Dore Schary, production boss of MGM; Jack L. Warner of Warner Bros.; Y. Frank Freeman, boss of Paramount; Harry Joe Brown, independent producer; George Sidney, head of the screen directors' guild; Jerry Wald, production boss at Columbia; and actors George Murphy and Ronald Reagan.

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) and his counsel, James H. Bobo, said the Senate investigators are "critical" of the following movies:

"Blackboard Jungle," "The French Line," "Women's Prison," "Crashout," "Black Tuesday," "Rebel Without a Cause" (not yet released), "Ten Wanted Men," "The Prodigal," "Big House, U.S.A.," "New Orleans Uncensored," "I Died a Thousand Times," "Chicago Syndicate" and "Son of Sinbad."

Bobo said the movie men also will be questioned about the recent relaxing of the motion picture production code.

BETTER BOX OFFICE?

"We want to know why these pictures were approved," he said. "We also want box-office figures. We want to know if the movies make sex and violence pictures because they make more money than others."

Some of the pictures will be quizzed on their advertising campaigns, especially "The Prodigal," a biblical picture that was sold mostly on a revealing cheesecake photo of Miss Turner's famed torso.

Among the major studios, only 20th Century-Fox and RKO will be absent. Bobo explained that Spyros Skouras, head of 20th-Fox, was questioned in Washington. He couldn't reach Howard Hughes, owner of RKO.

City's Cinders Ruin Paint Job Painter Claims

Incinerator Gets Blame for Damage

Flying ash from the city's incinerator at the garbage wharf has ruined part of a commercial paint job here, according to a painting contractor.

A. L. Johnston, who is painting the office-retail building of Shawigan Lumber Yards Ltd. at 2066 Government Street, finished part of the job Tuesday night, and found it covered with ashes Wednesday.

DO IT AGAIN

"I can't leave a job like that," he said as he pointed to the bespeckled front of the building. "It is my responsibility to paint this again, but I have no guarantee that the next job won't be ruined, too."

"Maybe the city should pay me for my loss of time and extra labor charges on the job," he said.

At times ashes, carried on the prevailing southwesterly wind, are one-half inch deep around the building.

"We can't open a door without cinders and trash sweeping in," a company spokesman said. "It's almost impossible to keep the place clean inside."

"There are constant complaints of a smoke nuisance, but the city really has a dilly of its own," another representative of the firm said.

NEEDED 5,000 ROOMS

Big Convention Passes Up City; No Accommodation

The chance for Victoria to play host to several thousand delegates to the 1958 International convention of International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers has gone by the board because local accommodation falls short.

Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council Wednesday voted endorsement of Local 230 IBEW recommendation to support construction of a civic auditorium, plus greater hotel and auto court facilities here.

Electrical workers' delegate said Victoria had been selected as a possible site of the huge convention, but of a total required 5,000 rooms for convention delegates, only 1,500 would be available, investigation showed. Total local accommodation is 3,000 rooms.

In addition there are no existing meeting facilities capable of handling more than a few hundred convention delegates, the meeting was told.

City council is now giving consideration to a plan to use the capital city grant from the provincial government to assist in building a civic auditorium.

USE FINES

Council delegate John Aubrey suggested sending Mayor Claude Harrison the proposal to use parking meter violation fines for construction purposes.

DISCRIMINATION

Council voted to support wherever possible action by Vancouver Joint Labor Committee against racial discrimination. It is now drafting a resolution to the provincial government for founding a fair employment practices act.

Stiff Course Flunks 90 of 125 In First Class at Military College

WESTMOUNT, Que. (CP)—Col. M. L. Labaie, commandant of College Militaire Royale de St. Jean, said Wednesday most of the young men who enrolled in the college's first class three years ago failed to graduate this year mainly because they lacked full understanding of the institution's aims or curriculum.

However, Col. Labaie said, the "high casualty rate" is unlikely to continue.

Addressing a service club in this Montreal suburb, he said only 35 of the 125 students who enrolled at the college's opening graduated last month.

On entering the institution, many of them expected a course only in military instruction and "were not prepared for our course, which is primarily engineering."

Shirriff's white cake mix with the mix that matches the berries for country freshness!

Yes... a Shirriff's White Cake Mix has that light, moist creamy texture that only dairy-fresh whole milk can give to a white cake. That's the kind of country freshness that makes fresh strawberries feel right at home. And when it comes to flavouring, it's Shirriff's famous vanilla that gives all of your strawberry shortcake the same delicious, delicate flavour. You put it in the whipped cream. We put it in the Shirriff's White Cake Mix. Outdo yourself this year on Strawberry Shortcake... with the matchless mix for shortcake Shirriff's White Cake Mix.

JURY FINDS

Runway Too Short For Plane

EDMONTON (CP)—Insufficient runway length has been blamed by a coroner's jury for the crash May 26 of a four-engine York transport plane in which two men were killed.

The jury's verdict Wednesday followed a two-day inquest into the deaths of pilot William Hight, 31 of Durham, England; and co-pilot Donald Horton, 23, of Fort Garry, Man.

The crash occurred when a heavily-laden, Arctic-bound cargo plane failed to gain sufficient altitude on taking off from Edmonton Municipal airport and plunged into a railway yard.

The plane loaded to maximum gross take-off limit of 68,000 pounds, required an over-all take-off distance of 7,100 feet in order to attain an altitude of 50 feet, the standard clearance height.

An RCAF flight engineer, Sgt. Ldr. K. M. Odoon, told the jury that an overall take-off distance of only 6,300 feet was available. This distance included 5,700 feet by runway.

HARRISON HOT SPRINGS, B.C. (CP)—Thomas W. Garner, 29-year-old logger, was killed Wednesday when crushed beneath a rolling log. He was employed at the R and F Logging Company operations near here.

Marilyn 'Discovers' Porridge in London

'I Didn't Know I Liked It—I'll Have It Every Morning,' Says Toronto Champ

(Marilyn Bell, first person to conquer Lake Ontario, arrived in London Sunday to begin training for swimming the English Channel. She is recording a daily diary of her experiences. Because of the national interest in Marilyn and the great interest here in channel swimming, the Times has made special arrangements to bring it to Victorian. Today's installment is written for Marilyn by Dorothy Howarth of the Toronto Telegram.)

LONDON—Over a "Cuppa" in Lyons of Piccadilly Circus Marilyn saw herself for the first time in an English newspaper.

"If she swims the Channel she will be the youngest swimmer ever to succeed," said the story underneath a picture of herself and coach Gus Ryder. "Phillip Mickman of Osett, Yorks, was 18 when he succeeded in 1949."

"I hope I'll really be the youngest ever," said Marilyn. There were many workers from the business area having tea around the teenage swimmer at the same time many were reading the same newspaper. None of them connected the large picture with the quiet child having tea and brown bread beside them.

Marilyn was still a very tired little girl today, she may yet have to spend a day in bed to recover from the toll of the flight here and the last few hectic weeks in Toronto.

She began the morning at eight with oatmeal porridge. "I didn't know I liked it, and I'm going to have it every morning now," she says. Then to a nearby pool, where she did an hour and fifteen minutes of fast or sprint swimming.

OLYMPIC SIZE

She and Joan Cooke swam back and forth across the pool under Gus' direction, stepping up their strokes to compensate for the lack of distance in the pool. The pool is Olympic size and is used by swimmers training for the Olympics.

"We've got to keep a continuity of training if we're going to succeed, no matter where we are," insists Gus Ryder. "Tomorrow morning we'll start at nine and we'll try to get in at least two hours. The sooner we get down to Folkestone and into the channel the better."

Marilyn visited Ontario House in the afternoon, and Canada House in the morning. She was just signing the visitors' book in Canada House when the High Commissioner for Canada, Hon. Norman Robertson and Mrs. Robertson, came by. They stopped for a chat and to wish her success.

"I've never swum in the Channel," Mrs. Robertson told Marilyn, "but I've been swimming in the North Sea."

SHUDDER "Is it as cold as the Channel?" asked Marilyn. She shuddered visibly when Mrs. Robertson replied "Oh, I believe it is colder."

In fact Marilyn has been shuddering ever since she arrived, partly due to excitement and weariness, but largely due to damp English weather and the unheated buildings.

For lunch today Marilyn had an omelette and ice cream for dessert then the visit to Ontario House, and then an hour or so off for shopping when she tried out her new English money with a sureness and a sharp eye for the ha'penny that proves she has handled money before.

It was the woman on the corner of Piccadilly Circus by the tube entrance who helped her most. She was the motherly sort in weather-stained black beret, shapeless black coat and even more shapeless black shoes. "This is a nice one, Ducks," she said, handing Marilyn another brightly colored photograph of the guards, or a famous feature of London.

Marilyn wanted only 40 postcards. "I have to send them to all my friends," she explained to the slightly shaken outdoor saleslady.

It was after the walk around the Circus and Regent street, that Marilyn was tired enough to join London's five o'clock crowd in Lyons for a cup of tea. "It's just like the Honeydew at home," she said. She took a taxi back to the hotel where she had dinner in her room (steak and Jello) with her mother and was put to bed with a too-high temperature before nine o'clock.

"I'm even too tired to write in my diary," she said. But I promise I'll write twice as much tomorrow night."

GEN. TEMPLER CANADA-BOUND

LONDON (Reuters) — Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, who becomes chief of Britain's Imperial General Staff in November, will visit the United States and Canada for nine days starting Sunday, the war office announced Wednesday.

Modern Shopping Centre Planned

A five-store shopping centre is expected to be started next month on the east side of Cadboro Bay Road between Estevan and Hamiota. Architects Clack and Clayton say tenders will be called next week. They said the centre will include a Red and White supermarket which will be flanked by smaller stores—likely a bakery, dry cleaner, drug store and beauty parlor. A large customer parking area is included in the planned development. McKinley & Sons have been awarded contract for a $60,000, eight-suite apartment at Estevan and Dunlevy. Mack Harris of Calgary is the builder and the architects are Polson and Sid-leased the name of the builder.

OLD SWEATS FAVORED FOR U.S. OPEN TITLE

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—It was the old-timers versus the youngsters, with old man par caught in the middle, as the annual National Open golf tournament got under way today on the Olympic Club lake-side course that has been dubbed "The Monster." Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Sam Snead and Ben Hogan, among the veteran campaigners, are listed as the choices to win this most-coveted of all crowns.

But it is a gruelling test on an exacting course and for that reason such brilliant young shot-makers as Gene Littler, Dick Mayer, Bob Rosburg and Mike Souchak also are given a good chance to cop the big prize.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

The B.C. Open golf tournament committee has finally committed itself; and, as was suggested here earlier, as what might happen, committed itself ingloriously, to say the least.

The list of the elite of B.C. golf invited to participate in the $15,000 event at Shaughnessy Club in Vancouver has been released. It includes only two Victorians.

They are PPGA champion Bob Fleming of Gorge Vale and assistant professional Laurie Carroll of Victoria Club.

Fleming's entry was always assured, it seems, for his record deserves attention. Carroll is one of the younger crop and can certainly use the experience.

But what happened to other Island golfers? It was due to occur, this brazen oversight, as it always does, we know; but why?

For surely, Bill Court, a full-fledged professional from Colwood and a semifinalist in the Island match-play Open has earned the chance.

And surely, Bill McColl, Hugh Morrison and Laurie Kerr have records from the past and present that can compare with some of those selected from Vancouver—fellows like Gordon MacKenzie, Bert Ticehurst, John Russell, Bryan Copp. We have no axe to grind with these fellows. But really they haven't done any more than have some Victorians. And Victoria still is a part of the B.C. Golf Association; or is it?

Has Anyone Done More Than Bob?

And wouldn't it have been a nice gesture for the Open committee to have invited veteran Bob Morrison to the biggest wing-ding of its kind on the coast? An eight-time city champion, Bob's record is unmatched down through the years by any amateur selected from the mainland.

This would have been fitting tribute to one of the grandest competitors of all—to compete with and against the best in the business he has served so loyally.

But no, Victoria has been given token recognition, and that's all. And it's not good enough. For this is the B.C. Open isn't it? Not the Vancouver Open.

It isn't that we in Victoria want to hog the limelight. It isn't that city golfers want equal representation with Vancouver where there are far more numerous low handicappers, and far more golfers than there are here. And it isn't that we condemn other golfers themselves for being selected as better than ours.

But certainly out of all fairness, Victoria demands representation, and a better representation than it has received in the past.

The principle is all wrong.

Time for a Change, But Quick!

It may be argued that Victoria golfers by-passed the B.C. Amateur in large numbers this year.

And it may be said that those who did compete hardly distinguished themselves as world beaters.

But by the same token, when the B.C. Amateur was last held in Victoria, didn't Vancouver golfers do likewise, stay away in numbers, and hasn't it been that way all along?

The two cities are fields apart when it comes to golf, at least the management and direction of golf in the province, and it now definitely appears that something must be done to bridge this gap.

Victoria golfers attempted to alleviate the situation this year by proposing an inter-city match between the top 10 (for top eight) of each centre. But this was declined by Vancouver and, more important, given little or no consideration by the B.C. Association.

If, as it seems, it is a matter of judgment of talent (with all the judges on the mainland at present) then perhaps a new system should be worked out to compile a suitable rating list of golfers during the year.

For example, The B.C. Amateur and B.C. Closed could be "must" tournaments; the respective city tournaments would rank on equal basis; the match play Open in both centres would be rated, for amateurs, on those reaching the semifinal stage; and showings in other major events like the PPGA, the Canadian Amateur, the Canadian Open, the B.C. Open, regarded as bonus points.

Certainly the way matters stand at present, only discontent and ill-feeling can result. Which, it is quite obvious, has too long been the case.

Indians Edge Pils, Share Second Place

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pilseners found the task of playing two tough lacrosse games in as many nights too big a load to bear as they dropped a tense and thrilling 9-8 Inter-city League game to 600.

Pleasant Indians before some 600 fans at Vancouver Forum Wednesday night.

Ponderous Jim Kinna, one of the rear-guard mainstays of Pils, made only one turn on the floor for his team, but it turned out to be a costly one. Arriving in the third quarter, Kinna stepped in to take a turn at defence and almost immediately banged Indians Mel Jones accidentally over the head with his stick.

Jones took exception to the incident and a mild brawl started in which three punches were thrown.

How Harry Got His Name

The biggest fidget in the major leagues today is Harry "The Hat" Walker, who recently took over management of the St. Louis Cardinals from Eddie Stanky. Walker gets his nickname from his nervous, hat-punishing antics that wear out headgear at an expensive rate. Walker duffs, twists, crumples and revolves his hat while he coaches at third base, as these pictures indicate. (NEA.)

PEGGY BEATS MARG

Champ Ousted In City Golf

If you like surprises, there's one a day at Royal Colwood this week.

The event is the city ladies' golf championship.

On Tuesday defending B.C. champion Dot Herberson was shunted to the sidelines by Shirley Naysmith, and last year's finalist, Mrs. H. G. Mearns, went down before Colwood's Isabel McIntyre.

Wednesday the pattern continued when defending champ Marg Todd of Victoria Club fell victim to clubmate Peggy Harris, and Mrs. McIntyre bowed to Mrs. Ken Lawson of Uplands.

Mrs. Todd was beaten 1 up, by Mrs. Harris, herself a former city champ, while Mrs. McIntyre was a 2 and 1 loser to Mrs. Lawson, also a former titleholder.

In other matches—three went according to form—Mrs. Derek Rhys-Jones whipped Mrs. R. Barnes of Duncan, 7 and 6, and Mrs. Naysmith gained the semifinals with a 4 and 3 triumph over Mrs. B. Thirlwell of the Gorge.

COMES FROM BEHIND

Two down at the end of two holes, Mrs. Harris rallied to be all even at the sixth and went ahead on the 12th. She took the 15th in par to establish her winning edge, the final two holes being halved after Mrs. Todd shaved the margin to one hole by winning the 16th.

Mrs. Lawson, one up at the turn, won two of the next four holes, against Mrs. McIntyre to go three up. But Mrs. McIntyre fought back to win 14 and 15, only to fall on her attempted comeback when she lost 16.

IN FORM

Mrs. Rhys-Jones had the best medal round of the day, a sparkling 41 on the front nine, to be five up on Mrs. Barnes at the turn. Mrs. Naysmith got an unexpected stiff battle from Mrs. Thirlwell, being even at the turn. But on the back nine it was a different story. Mrs. Naysmith taking four of the six holes.

Semifinals are scheduled to-day with Mrs. Naysmith meeting Mrs. Lawson and Mrs. Harris clashing with Mrs. Rhys-Jones. Finals are billed over 18 holes Friday.

SEMI-FINALS

Mrs. J. Munro won by default from Miss D. Herberson.

Mrs. H. Erickson defeated Mrs. A. Higgins, 2 up.

Mrs. H. Huxford defeated Miss V. Wilby, 4 and 3.

SECOND FLIGHT

Mrs. V. Gifford defeated Mrs. W. Hadley, 4 and 7.

Mrs. G. Stielck defeated Miss J. Warner, 8 and 7.

Mrs. M. Mahoney defeated Mrs. A. Higgins, 1 up.

Mrs. H. McKinnis defeated Mrs. J. Clark, 6 and 5.

THIRD FLIGHT

Mrs. J. Stewart defeated Mrs. A. Gannon, 5 and 3.

Mrs. P. Spencer defeated Mrs. R. Rickinson, 1 up.

NELSON TO BID FOR CANADIAN RECORD

Track Mark Could Tumble

In this jet-propelled age of "miracle miles" and streamlined living, a 47-year-old track record is still on the books, waiting patiently to be equalled.

Back in musty old 1908, a fellow by the name of Bobby Kerr of Hamilton, Ontario, ran faster than anybody else for 220 yards, and did it in 21.4 seconds. The mark has withstood the assault of time and champions the likes of Percy Williams and the late Howie McPhee.

Saturday evening at Victoria High Stadium, some more pretty fair sprinters are going to have a crack at it, during the Victoria Times-Victoria YMCA fifth annual Vancouver Island Track and Field Championships.

One of them will be Harry Nelson of Vancouver, about the fastest Canadian around today over a short distance. Harry will be racing a horse at Lansdowne Park in Vancouver Saturday afternoon, but will be on hand Saturday evening for a crack at the 100-yard and 220 marks. He has run the 220 unofficially in 21 seconds flat over a straight track, but Saturday's effort will be on the tougher curved track.

... fastest Canadian?

A total of 18 sprinters have entered the 220 dash, making it one of the classiest sprint fields seen in Victoria. Walt Hill, a colored sprinter from Seattle Pacific College, is the latest runner to signify his intentions of setting a new mark. With a 21.5 220 to his credit already, he is expected to give Nelson quite a battle.

Both Nelson and Hill have travelled the 100 yards in 9.5 seconds, just over the world mark of 9.3 seconds, so a new record may also be set over the shorter distance.

Terry Tobacco, running for the Victoria "Y," will try the 220 rather than his specialty, the quarter-mile. While not yet in top shape, he is expected to give a good showing.

While the Canadian record may not fall, it is almost certain that new B.C. native and meet times will be set. McPhee holds the native record of 21.9, while Bruce Springbett of Vancouver and Bob Hutchison of Victoria are co-holders of the meet record.

Ladder Derby Results

Ed Stonier and Dick Jewsbury took over the first two runs in the third qualifying week of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers Association ladder derby Wednesday.

Stonier took a 194 pound spring salmon at the Brentwood end of the inlet and climbed over the top rung. Jewsbury moved into the runner-up position with an 18-pound, nine-ounce salmon.

A total of 19 fish was weighed in Wednesday and 27 of the 50 available rungs are occupied.

Ladder standings follow:

Aussies Hold Huge Lead

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters)—Led by Richie Renaud, who scored a century in 78 minutes, the Australian cricketers went on a batting spree Wednesday to gain a huge first-innings lead of 401 over West Indies on the fourth day of the fifth test match.

Replying to West Indies' first-innings total of 357, the Australians, who have already won the rubber, scored a record-breaking 758 for eight before declaring at tea. The West Indians had made 60 for one wicket in their second innings at the close.

Both Keith Miller and Ron Archie completed centuries when play was resumed Wednesday.

PARIS (AP)—The International Olympic Committee today awarded the 1960 summer games to Rome.

The voting—most important in the world of sports—was taken as the climax of the week-long IOC meeting in the Cercle Interallié, an international house in the heart of Paris.

Losing cities were Lausanne, Budapest, Brussels, Detroit, Tokyo and Mexico City.

A decision on the winter games will be reached Friday.

The 1956 games will be in Australia. In accordance with an unwritten Olympic rule that summer games must be in Europe at least two-thirds of the time, the return to Europe was almost a foregone conclusion.

The accession marked the second time the summer games have been awarded to the Italian capital. The 1938 games were due to be held in Rome, but 18 months before they were to start, the Italians said they could not stage the big sports festival because of financial difficulties and London had to step in.

MID-ISLAND TOURNEY HOLDS GOLF SPOTLIGHT

A field of 70 top golfers from all points on the Island and lower mainland will compete in a double competition Sunday at Nanaimo Golf and Country Club for the Mid-Island Championship and the Zone One title.

The Mid-Island tournament will be held over 27 holes while the Zone One champion will be decided over the 36-hole route.

Among the top local golfers entered are Victoria City amateur champion Laurie Kerr, Island Open champion Bill McColl and PPGA champion Bob Fleming, a former Mid-Island champ.

Cox, Westlake Refuse To Accept Ball Trade

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP)—Third baseman Billy Cox and outfielder Wally Westlake, two of the principals in Wednesday's trade between the Cleveland Indians and Baltimore Orioles, have refused to join their new clubs, it was reported today.

Cox, traded to the Indians, said he was quitting baseball and left for his home in Newport, Pa. Westlake, sent to Baltimore, reported to the Orioles for a few minutes and then flew back to his home in Cleveland.

City Gains On Leaders

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver City climbed within three points of the leading New Westminster Royals here Tuesday night by whipping Firefighters 3-1 in a regular Pacific Coast Soccer League fixture.

Frank Ambler scored for Firefighters.

Cliff Welles scored two for City. John Clifford got the other tally.

Big left-hander Bill Garner will likely get the nod from manager Ed Ash to start the afternoon game, with league-leading pitcher Paul Beck also available. Garner has been pitching for the University of Oregon and owns a season record of 6-2.

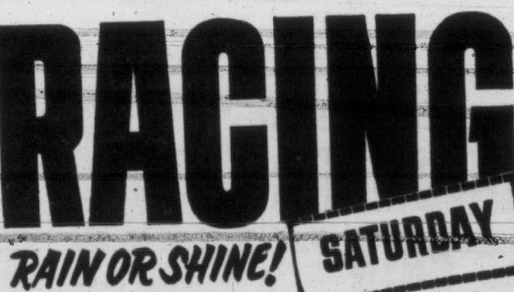

For the nightcap, former WIL pitcher Bill Prior will get the starting job, with Fred Christensen and Lowell Hodges in reserve.

FREDERICTON—Tommy Dixon, 147, New York, knocked out Gaston Roy, 151, Charlottetown, 17.

Lions Club Ceremony June 28

LANGFORD—Installation of officers of Langford and District Lions Club will take place in Royal Colwood Golf Club June 28 when the ladies will be special guests.

Details were made known at the club's regular dinner meeting Tuesday night at Knott's Pine restaurant by Ed Thow, chairman. Zone chairman elect Don McLeod of Esquimalt Lions will conduct the installations. Entertainment and dancing is planned.

A bulldozer will be used to clear grounds at the Langford public beach on the Island Highway, which is being developed by the Lions for swimming classes and picnic grounds for the general public. The existing road into the beach will be improved and extended to give safe two-way access. Crushed sand will be added to the beach.

Annual swim classes will get under way Saturday and will be held six nights a week and Saturday afternoons. Classes will start at the Leigh Road public beach at Langford Lake. Registration will take place Friday in St. Matthew's Hall at 7 p.m. Participants must bring their registrations with them.

Doug Price reported on transportation requirements of a young child from Langford attending the Jubilee Hospital cerebral palsy clinic. A few more volunteers are needed and persons with cars wishing to make a trip once or twice a month are asked to contact Mr. Price at 8-3515.

Les Smith, president-elect, who attended the international Lions convention in Tacoma, gave a full report. Art Bewley, chairman of the hard times dance and Klondike night, reported that sufficient money had been raised to purchase the resuscitator for the Langford fire department. It is completely paid for and already has been used by the ambulance corps, he said.

Victoria Man Reviews Duty With W.H.O.

SOOKE—Two years' work with the World Health Organization in Sarawak and Formosa was the topic of D. K. McDonald's talk to the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute at its regular meeting here.

Mr. McDonald, public health educator for Victoria and South Vancouver Island, was introduced by Mrs. R. G. Nixon, institute convener of health and welfare.

Delegates to the South Vancouver Island District W.I. convention, to be held at Colwood Sept. 21, will be Mrs. E. Butler and Mrs. W. Eddy.

The usual co-operation will be extended to Sooke Farmers' Institute at the fall fair, to be held Sept. 10, when Mrs. F. Gray and Mrs. Eddy will convene tea. Mrs. R. Strong and Mrs. J. Forrest will attend to the home cooking section, and Mrs. G. G. Aitken will be in charge of the pioneer section.

Prizes for top pupils of Sooke Elementary School again will be presented by the institute at the closing exercises.

A grant of $15 was voted to the Sooke Girl Guide Association.

Big event of the institute's year, the annual games night will be held Oct. 22. Conveners have been appointed as follows:

Mrs. G. H. Jones, plants and bulbs; Mrs. F. G. Gray, candy; Mrs. G. Duncan, home cooking; Mrs. J. B. Wilkinson, children's activities; Mrs. J. Duncan, needlework; Mrs. K. Cains, kitchen; Mrs. P. E. Wilford, white elephant stall; Mrs. C. Schrieber, books; Mrs. R. Cains, tombola; Mrs. J. Martin, cake walk; Mrs. G. Hay, novelty; Mrs. E. Butler and Mrs. W. Eddy, games; Mrs. G. A. Acreman, publicity; Mrs. W. A. Conder and Mrs. G. R. Kendrew, concert.

Ladysmith Nurses Plan July Picnic

LADYSMITH—Registered and Graduate Nurses' Association, "Ladysmith chapter," will hold a family picnic July 9 at Gregson's Beach.

Members reported at the last meeting on a visit to the Victoria cerebral palsy clinic. Mrs. J. Breidenberg and Mrs. I. Blake reported on the B.C. convention of the association in Penikese.

Members agreed to donate $10 to the Ladysmith Hospital current account fund.

Injured Logger Recovering

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 41-year-old logger was reported in good condition in hospital here today after being flown from Alert Bay with injuries. Walter Kunda, an employee of Canadian Forest Products, suffered a fractured pelvis and a possible leg fracture when he was crushed by a log.

Water System Output Raised in Brentwood

Second Tank on Maber Ridge Will Provide Extra 1,000,000 Gallons Each Month

SAANICHTON—The second tank at Maber Ridge supplying the Brentwood area with water will go into commission by the end of this week to give greater pressure to the system, Victor Dawson, of the Brentwood water board, told Central Saanich council.

North Saanich School Wins Wright Trophy

SIDNEY—The F. N. Wright trophy, an annual prize awarded to the Saanich district high school with the highest athletic standing, has been won this year by North Saanich High School.

President of the students' council, Arvilla North, received the award from A. W. Murphy, physical training teacher.

Other two schools in the competition are Mount Newton and Royal Oak.

Eight students from the high school will visit UBC during the summer recess to attend the United Nations seminar. They are Barry duTemple, Sylvia Rodd, Helen Ross, Robert Hemmings, Anthony Dickens, Ethel Jahn, Anne Nimmo, Denis Holden.

Work of manual arts students will be on display Friday and Saturday in the basement of the school.

Wreck of Boat Inevitable, Coroner Told

ALERT BAY, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's jury Wednesday returned a verdict of "accidental death by drowning with no blame attached to anyone" at an inquest into the death of four members of an evangelist group.

Two survivors of the ill-fated 33-foot fishing boat which sank last Friday with the loss of four persons, gave their account of the tragedy at the inquest.

Stacey Peters, 30-year-old missionary and Bruce Price, 53, owner of the boat, told the jury how the small craft developed engine trouble and drifted onto reefs surrounding Midsummer Island.

The skipper said when he saw collision with the reefs was inevitable he told his passengers to jump.

When the boat began to break up the group leaped over the stern into the sea.

The pair spent 48 hours on the windswept island before they were rescued.

Chemainus Group Producing Comedy

CHEMAINUS—"Mexican Holiday," a two-act comedy featuring Mexican music, songs and dances, will be staged in the parish hall Friday and Saturday evening by the Anglican Church choral group.

Script was written by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Olsen, and the production is being directed by Mrs. Olsen. Plot concerns an eccentric couple from Kuper Island on a holiday in Mexico.

Proceeds from the show will go towards St. Michael and All Angels' Church organ fund.

Plans Ordered for Langford School Administration Unit

LANGFORD—Trustees of Sooke School District 62 have ordered working drawings for a new administration unit to be built at Langford Elementary School.

Cost will be covered by $15,000 left over from a previous school building by-law.

Sketches already are in hand for the completed school at Langford, which trustees expect will be constructed in separate stages.

The secretary has been asked to obtain plans ordered for an administration unit at Milnes Landing Junior-Senior High School.

ATTENDANCE SURVEY—Building and grounds committee will begin gathering information shortly toward preparing a referendum to cover building needs for the next five years. Surveys by school nurses

Sidney Delegates Sought for School

SIDNEY—The local recreation commission plans to send three delegates from this area to the provincial recreation leadership school to be held in Victoria July 13-19.

The schooling to consist of a 10-day training period, will deal principally with arts, crafts, gym work and general organization of any recreational work.

Residents interested in attending should contact a member of the commission here.

Girls' Circus Earns $5.67 For Red Cross

LADYSMITH—The Junior Red Cross is $5.67 richer as a result of a circus, complete with hot dogs, pop, merry-go-round, train rides, and roller skating, staged by Barbara and Judy Fuander of the Diamond.

Assisting them were Grace, Julie, Walter and Donald Versekas, Patricia Holmes, Clara Brantram, Catherine Stuart, Karen Armstrong, Billy Cairns, Joan and Patsy Gust, and Mary, Sharon and Linda Shelton.

Roof Buckled In Death Car

LADYSMITH—Leon Kenneth Goudal, 21, of Victoria, died of a broken neck Friday when his car struck the guard rail of Diamond Bridge near Ladysmith and catapulted against a telegraph pole.

There was evidence of high speed. The car was on its side when the front part of the roof buckled into the pole above the driver's head.

A coroner's jury concluded that Goudal was in an emotional religious condition at the time of the accident; as disclosed by evidence.

He had planned to study for the Lutheran ministry.

Coroner Dr. H. W. Lewis, Nanaimo, presided at the hearing. The funeral was held Wednesday in Victoria, and interment was at Royal Oak.

Turtle Mountain Quits Its Capers

FRANK, Alta. (CP)—Hundreds of southern Alberta visitors coming to witness the antics of uncertain Turtle mountain are returning home disappointed. The mountain is resting again.

After four days of blowing clouds—no one seems to know whether they were steam or dust—from a crevice near its peak, the fickle man-killer has stopped its capers that brought to life a dormant fear in residents of this village at its base.

They fear a recurrence of the April 29, 1903 disaster that killed at least 66 persons on the village's eastern outskirts when a 70,000,000-ton slab of limestone fell into the mountain valley below.

Since reports of the mountain's strange actions were made known, hundreds of curious southern Albertans have driven to the Crows Nest pass in the Rockies 90 miles west of Lethbridge to see the clouds for themselves. But the mountain won't co-operate.

Old-time coal miners in the district have come up with a new explanation for the mysterious clouds.

They say that melting snow packed in crevices may be dripping water onto fires smouldering in the coal mine buried in the 1903 limestone avalanche.

Fires have been known to smoulder for years in deserted underground mine shafts without indicating their presence.

Water, which reacts with limestone to form a mild acid, could have gradually eaten its way to one of the shafts. The clouds—if they are steam—could possibly have resulted from water dripping on the smouldering interior.

POLICE HUNT SINGER AFTER HOAX MARRIAGE

HULL, Que. (BUP)—Police searched today for a fast-talking 18-year-old former Parisian singer who arranged a phony television production for the marriage ceremony and then took the 17-year-old "bride" home with him.

Jean Guy Lacroix was wanted on a charge of rape under a Canadian law that lists seduction by fraud as rape.

Lacroix, who recently returned to Hull after a short, unsuccessful career as a singer in Paris, was charged after the father of the 17-year-old Ottawa girl involved complained to police that Lacroix had talked his daughter into believing she was married to him.

Lacroix arranged a wedding ceremony to be performed in the church before lights and a camera, telling the priest it was for a TV show.

SIX WAYS TO "DRESS" A SALAD FOR DAD!

Tossed Salad. A man's favourite, specially when he can add his own special dressing, made with Best Foods, the whole-egg mayonnaise. Tear (never cut) lettuce into bite-size pieces in a salad bowl. Add sliced cucumber, sliced radishes, green onions (both onion and stem) and small, firm tomatoes, cut in quarters. Toss, and use one of these good, hearty dressings with Best Foods real Mayonnaise as its base. Just wonderful! Whole eggs, freshly broken, give Best Foods that fresh richness... smooth and mild. And Best Foods blends perfectly. You can add up to 25% milk, cream, fruit juices, French Dressing, if you wish. This means you can make it go lots farther—it's just like getting another quarter of a jar free!

Horse Radish Mayonnaise: Combine 1/2 cup Best Foods real Mayonnaise with 1 1/2 teaspoons prepared horse radish, 1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard, and 1 tablespoon sweet chopped pickle.

Blue Cheese Mayonnaise: Combine 1/2 cup Best Foods real Mayonnaise with 2 tablespoons wine vinegar, 1/4 cup crumbled Blue Cheese, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard.

Dill Mayonnaise: To 1/2 cup Best Foods real Mayonnaise add 2 tablespoons liquid from jar of dill pickles, two tablespoons chopped dill, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

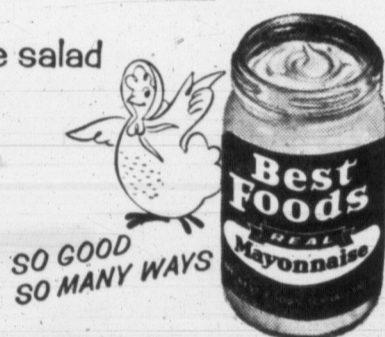

Cucumber Mayonnaise: To 1/2 cup Best Foods whole-egg Mayonnaise add 1/4 cup chopped cucumber, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 1 teaspoon tarragon vinegar, salt to taste.

Garlic Mayonnaise: Mash 1 clove garlic and let stand in 1/4 cup white vinegar for 10 min., then add 1 cup Best Foods real Mayonnaise. Combine with 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, salt and pepper.

Savoury Mayonnaise: Add to 1/2 cup Best Foods whole-egg Mayonnaise 1/4 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce, 1/4 cup cream, 1 teaspoon grated onion.

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—The South African Senate passed, 27-16, Tuesday night the Nationalist government's controversial Senate bill, which will enlarge the upper house to give the government the two-thirds majority it needs to remove mixed-blood voters from the common electoral roll.

The bill, which the Senate debated for two days, provides for the abolition of proportional representation in the Senate, and for the increase in members from 48 to 89, of whom 77 will represent the government.

The House of Assembly already has passed the bill.

Strike Date Draws Close For Fishermen

Vancouver (CP) — Negotiations between representatives of B.C. fishermen and canneries resumed Wednesday following "almost unanimous" rejection by workers of an offer of a five per cent salmon price boost.

The vote was conducted among 5,500 members of the United Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union, Ind. and the Native Brotherhood and the Fishing Vessel Owners Association.

The rejection of the canners' latest offer leaves less than a week in which a settlement must be reached before arrival of a strike deadline.

AVRO WORKERS STRIKE VOTE SET SUNDAY

TORONTO (BUP) — A strike vote will be taken Sunday by 7,000 Avro Canada employees but union sources said today they are confident no walkout will occur at the huge aircraft plant.

Complaints over layoffs, and subsequent "downgrading" in the pay of workers kept on the job, prompted the vote.

The union now is in contract negotiations with Avro and Sunday's vote was seen as a move to strengthen its hand at the bargaining table.

BUT NOT COMPULSORY

B.C. Drafts Rules On Meat Inspections

CLOVERDALE (CP) — The provincial department of agriculture is drawing up regulations to provide a standard meat inspection policy for B.C.

This was announced Wednesday at the quarterly meeting of the Boundary Health Unit by Agriculture Minister Kiernan, who said he believed municipalities should appoint local inspectors.

He said the provincial government would not impose compulsory meat inspection on a province-wide basis.

Instead, he said it was up to municipalities to implement new provincial regulations on the local level if they wanted meat inspection.

Reeve George Brooks said he believed meat inspection was a provincial responsibility and "the provincial government is shifting responsibility onto the shoulders of the municipalities."

Municipalities represented will take their recommendations back to their councils.

BE SURE TO SEE THE BAY'S DISPLAY AT THE SPORTSMEN'S SHOW IN THE ARENA, TONIGHT THROUGH SATURDAY!

Colorful 'Sidney Day' To Feature Parade, Sports, Gymkhana

One of the largest Sidney Day programs in history will get under way July 1 at noon when a grand parade will mark the beginning of a day-long program of sports events and displays.

Parade assembly will start at 10:30, and judging will begin at 11 a.m.

Sharp at noon the procession will leave Queens Avenue and Fifth Street and travel by way of Third Street, Sidney Avenue, Second Street, Beacon Avenue, Fifth Street, and Oakland Avenue to Memorial Park.

Prizes will be offered for decorated bicycles and cars.

best original community float, best commercial float, and comic entries.

Expected to take part are the Canadian Scottish brass band, Colwood Trail Riders, Victoria Post Office drill team, Chinese drill team, personnel from three armed services, Victoria's May Queen, and motorcycle riders.

The program at Memorial Park will start at 1 p.m. with the crowning of the Sidney Day Queen, a title for which 10 local girls now are competing.

At 1:20 the Chinese drill team of Victoria will give a display, and at 1:50 firemen and Trail Riders will compete in a tug-of-war.

A gymkhana will be staged by the Trail Riders from 2 to 4 p.m., when the RCN will begin an air display. A softball game is scheduled for 4:30 p.m., and 8 p.m. a boxing and wrestling card will begin.

Parade judges will be Mrs. Nona Damaske, Victoria Daily Times fashion editor; Mrs. Dorothy Wrotnowski, Colonist women's editor; and Reeve H. Rupert Brown of Central Saanich.

Entries or information may be secured from any of the following members of the parade committee: G. Hulme, J. Anderson, Mrs. E. L. Hammond, H. Bewley, Cpl. George Kent, A. Gardner, J. Eaton, H. Currie, A. Alexander, and G. B. Sterne, committee chairman.

Sponsor of the event is Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association, and all proceeds will be devoted to development of the community hall.

The association has a building, measuring 120 by 140 feet, that was donated by the national defence department. At present, though, it is at Patricia Bay Airport, and the association must move it to a permanent location at Memorial Park.

The effort is entirely voluntary, and conducted by all organizations in the district working through SANSCHA.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Gad! The Save Ripple Rock Association has been at it again.

Not content with forming sub-committees to Save Glimpse Reef, Save Race Rocks, and Save Juan de Fuca Strait, the Save Ripple, etc., had a meeting last night to form a brand-new save-type committee.

This committee was entrusted with the task of Saving British Columbia's Centennial Celebration Until British Columbia is 100 Years Old.

I was privileged (if that is the correct word) to be present at last night's meeting, and, in fact, was asked to make a record of the proceedings for the public prints.

On examining my notes, I find they consist entirely of: "1858 . . . no, 1866, no, 1871, no, 1888, no, 1885, no, 1866 and all that."

So I guess I'd better discard my notes, and trust to memory.

As I recall it, the Oldest Member of the Save Ripple Rock Association was the first to speak. "Man and boy," he said, "I've been in these here parts since there was any parts to be in," he said. "So if there's to be a centennial celebration, why, that would make me nigh unto 100 years old, wouldn't it?"

The member who always sits in the middle of the very back row said: "I arise to a point of order," arising as he did so.

The chairman then asked the Oldest Member to yield the floor.

"What say?" asked the Oldest Member.

"I wish to have our auditors audit the figures submitted by the Oldest Member," the member who always sits in the middle of the very back row stated.

This was put to a vote, and carried practically unanimously. So the auditors retired (which was easy for them, most of them being retired anyway.)

After awhile (as I remember it) the auditors came back, and said they had checked the Oldest Member's figures, and as far as they could ascertain, he didn't look a day over 99.

"What say?" the Oldest Member asked.

The member who always sits in the middle of the very back row leapt to his feet, and cried: "See? That proves it! If the Oldest Member doesn't look a day over 99, neither does British Columbia. How can we have a centennial when we don't look our age?"

Thereupon the membership at large appointed the above-mentioned committee to Save British Columbia's Centennial Celebration until British Columbia is 100 Years Old.

At least, I think that's what happened. All my notes reveal is: "1858 . . . no, 1866, no, 1871, no, 1885, no, 1866 and all that."

But whatever it is, I'm against it. After all, I live in Victoria.

CATHOLICS GIVEN PERMISSION TO EAT MEAT ON DOMINION DAY

Roman Catholics in Victoria and throughout B.C. may eat meat Dominion Day, Friday, July 1, the diocese here announced today.

Special dispensation was obtained from the Vatican to dispense with the laws of abstinence this date.

Reason is that July 1 coincides with one of the major feast days of the church.

Royal Navy Cruiser Coming Here For Navy Day Festivity Aug. 17

The Royal Navy cruiser HMS Superb will visit Victoria and Vancouver in August, during a summer training cruise, the RCN Pacific Command announced today.

Superb will be wearing the flag of Vice-Admiral J. E. Stevens, CB, CBE, RN, commander in chief of the America and West Indies Squadron. The flag ship is stationed at Bermuda, and will leave there June 20.

She will be in Vancouver harbor Aug. 4 to 11, and at Esquimalt Aug. 12 to 18. Her visit here will enable the cruiser to take part in Navy Day ceremonies, scheduled for Aug. 17.

Superb is a "Swiftsure" class cruiser, one of two built in 1945. She displaces 8,000 tons, and is similar in design and armament to Canada's East Coast cruiser, HMCS Quebec. Her peacetime complement is 867 officers and men.

Commanding officer is Capt. D. H. Connell-Fuller, RN.

India's Development Aid to World Culture

By TONY DICKASON

Culture of the whole world will be enriched if India succeeds in her program of economic and social development, Escott M. Reid, high commissioner for Canada in India, said here today.

"Success in that program will release tremendous latent energies in India, and those energies will produce not only things of the hand but things of the mind and spirit."

Tests Defended By CD Officials

'Shoot Mouths Off Without Knowing Facts' - Peachey

Disaster crippled three large B.C. centres theoretically today, leaving 18,300 killed, 14,400 injured and more than 40,000 homeless as Exercise Alert II, a North American civil defence communications paper scheme, drew to a close.

British Columbia's part has been "very successful and a lot learned from it," provincial co-ordinator Maj. Gen. C. R. Stein said from control headquarters.

The 30-hour exercise to test communications and headquarters facilities was due to end at 1 p.m. after three imaginary atom bombs exploded over Vancouver, Victoria and Trail-Tad-anac.

Locally, a similar communications-headquarters paper exercise Wednesday evening came off with satisfactory results, Greater Victoria CD co-ordinator Roger Peachey said. The exercise was not connected with the national scheme and merely coincided with it.

Both schemes were soundly criticized Wednesday night by Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board members Ald. Brent Murdoch and Saanich Cllr. S. W. Brock, deputy chairman.

"This exercise in this area is a farce, in my opinion," Ald. Murdoch said.

"The whole thing is far from realistic," commented Cllr. Brock.

In answer, Mr. Peachey said: "The critics misunderstood the purpose of the whole thing. It's a pity these people have to shoot their mouths off without knowing what is going on."

In reply to the alderman's charge that the control board was not informed of the exercise, the co-ordinator explained:

"The exercise is far from realistic," commented Cllr. Brock.

Nylon-Elastic Pegless Cord
Perfect for Dainty Lingerie

By PENNY SAVER

For dainty lingerie and nylons that you must handle so carefully when washing and hanging up to dry, harsh clothes pegs and pins can sometimes be the bane of washday. They mark and sometimes even rust the flimsy undies. But no more of that for me! I've found a nylon-elastic clothesline that requires no pegs or pins. You hang the cord by simply passing each end of the elastic cord around a pipe or door knob, and catching the cord again with the hook on the end. Open one twist of the cord, insert a tiny piece of the article to be dried. There it will hang until dry, when a gentle pull will release it, leaving nary a mark.

The cord is white and will stretch to 10 feet. Price is $1.69.

I wandered into one of my favorite toy departments this morning and was captivated by the novel and interesting things on display. For instance a play pay telephone that is held to the wall by four suction cups. It rings when you dial, and it is almost a perfect replica of a real pay phone. There are slots at the top for nickels, dimes and quarters, and after you've dialed, the money is returned to you. Directions at the bottom say "Put receiver, deposit coin and dial number" just like a real one. Tiny tads will love this phone, and if they've a play house, this will be the final touch for it. They're selling at $2.69.

Another white cradle wall phone is for the little tots, too. It looks very plush and just what the little girl will love. These cost $1.69. Something else for the little girl is a dolly bath set. There's a soft rubber-plastic bathtub, complete with double faucets, and a tray across the front divided into sections and holding two tiny bars of soap. A perfect sized doll with open-and-close eyes comes with it, too. This realistic set costs $1.19.

For mom, I saw some attractive butterfly serving dishes that she'd like to have for entertaining. There are glass butterfly serving dishes that have a glittering gold trim. They're divided down the middle with a gold trimmed section, and she can serve nuts and candies in the same dish, or some other combination of tidbits. Just 98 cents.

Tomato Festival

LEAMINGTON, Ont. — Late summer and fall will be a busy season for the first lady of this farm centre of 8,000, for in addition to entertaining at the international plowing match, Mayor Grace MacFarland will be hostess at Canada's first national tomato festival, to be held Sept. 9-10, as the "new pack" tomato harvest gets under way.

The tomato festival, which is being arranged by the Leamington Chamber of Commerce, will be highlighted by street dancing, displays in the town's new recreation and agriculture centre, a visit by the RCN, growers' contests, monster street parades, and two beauty contests, one of them featuring the infant ladies of the town. . . the pudgy little winner will blushing receive the title "Miss Cute Tomato."

Leamington is proud to do such honor to the tomato, which is the backbone of the economy in this area—known affectionately as "The Sun Parlor of Canada."

The international plowing match—not Canada's first but always a spectacular event—will be held Oct. 11 to 14.

Garden Party

The Guild of the Church of St. George the Martyr, Cadboro Bay, has set Saturday, July 16, as the date of the annual garden party. Afternoon tea will be served and there will be many special features.

In Dance Review

Miss Lucy Tomazyk, Spanish lady; Miss Jill Pinniger, top hat girl; Misses Adaline Chuhaywick, Shannon MacLean and Frances Mergiman, left to right, will all appear in the annual dance review of the Florence Clough Dance Academy, Monday evening in the Royal Theatre, commencing at 8 p.m. The review is sponsored by Canadian Daughters League, Assembly No. 5. An interesting program will present a large group of young Victorians in every phase of the dance.

TODAY'S RECIPE

BARBECUED SPARE RIBS

Two tablespoons granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, ¼ cup pure cider vinegar, ¼ cup tomato ketchup, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 clove garlic, peeled, minced; 2 pounds spare ribs.

Heat oven to 500 degrees (very hot). Prepare barbecue sauce: In a saucepan combine first 9 ingredients; cover, simmer 15 minutes. Meanwhile, place spare ribs, rounded side up, on rack in baking pan. Bake at 500 degrees for 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees (moderate); brush both sides of ribs with sauce. Bake, uncovered, rounded side up, for 1½ hours or until spare ribs are very tender, frequently brushing top side with sauce during first hour of baking. Then place under broiler and broil slowly for a few minutes until bubbling and lightly browned. Before arranging on serving platter, cut with kitchen shears into individual servings of 2-3 ribs each. Makes 4-5 servings.

Prepare barbecue sauce as above. Grill spareribs over hot coals, turning and brushing frequently with sauce for approximately 30 minutes or until tender.

Wife's Working Depends On Individual Factors

By ELIZABETH R. HURLOCK, PhD

A woman's place is where she and her husband feel it should be.

(Q)—"I believe in women working before they are married and have children. But I think more women should practice the old saying 'a woman's place is in the home.' I don't see how she can work and take care of her children, especially when they are young. When a man can't make enough to support a family, maybe he shouldn't get married. If more men would demand a wage that would support their families, maybe fewer women would have to work to supplement it. I think it is unfair to men who don't believe in women's working to be willing to take less pay because their wives work and together they make enough to support their families."

(A)—I agree wholeheartedly with what you say about women's working when they have small children. However, you must be realistic and see that this is sometimes a necessity.

Most men and certainly most women expect their husbands to be able to earn enough money to support their families when they decide to marry. However, when young people marry, as is so often true today, they often do not realize how much money it takes.

Furthermore, wages and salaries are paid on the basis of work done, not on what the worker needs to support his family. If a man is not capable of holding a job that pays enough to support his family, it is not a question of his being unwilling to take a lower wage, as you say. It is what he is capable of earning that will determine what he can expect.

The real solution to the problem is to have families cut the cloth to fit the pattern. If a husband does not want his wife to work, and if she feels her place is at home, then they must learn to live within the income he is capable of supplying. If, on the other hand, they want more than he can afford to get, then the wife must work to supplement her husband's income.

Rice was exported by the Province of South Carolina as early as 1754. In that year 104,682 barrels of rice were shipped. In addition, enough rice was grown to supply the needs of the people in South Carolina.

To Building Fund—A donation of $300 was made to the church building fund at meeting of All Saints' Ladies' Guild, held in the home of Mrs. H. Downard, 291 View Royal Avenue. Final plans were made for the fall fair in mid-September and following the business meeting Mrs. Downard spoke on her recent trip to California and Mexico.

Donations—At meeting of the Mabel Burnett Circle, held in the Kingston Street home of Mrs. T. Fulthorp, a donation of $20 was sent to the Solum building fund and $10 to an adopted family in Sheffield, Eng. Mrs. R. Sandewick presided and it was announced there will be no meetings in July and August. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. A. Clark, Mrs. J. Cudmore and Mrs. J. Smith.

STRAWBERRY GLAZE-PIE

Sunday is Father's Day—your chance to show him he's tops by baking him the kind of pie he dreams of—a lush, lovely Strawberry Glaze Pie just dripping with berries—and with pastry so crumbly-rich, so out-of-this-world good—the kind of pastry you get only with Jewel. Here's how:

PASTRY
Yield: one 8" shell
1/2 cup QUICK-MIX JEWEL SHORTENING
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 to 3 tablespoons cold water

Sift flour with salt into bowl. Cut in Jewel, until mixture is like coarse cornmeal. There's a reason for using Jewel, rather than just any shortening. Jewel has the super shortening power it takes to give your pastry that extra tender flakiness you're so proud of. There's absolute proof of this. Jewel has been tested against all other shortenings in hundreds of different recipes, and every time the Jewel pastry was the most flaky and tender. Next, sprinkle cold water, a little at a time, over different parts of flour mixture. Toss lightly. Place dough in waxed paper; knead 3 times; press gently into ball. Let stand 15 minutes. Roll dough into circle 1/4 inch thick. Fit dough into pan. Flute edge with fingertips. Prick pastry with fork. Bake. Baking temp. 450° F.

Baking time: 10 to 12 mins.

FILLING
1 quart fresh strawberries
1 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 1/2 cups water
1/2 cup apricot food coloring

Wash and cut larger berries in half. Place sugar and 1/2 cup of water in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Dissolve cornstarch in remaining 1/2 cup of water. Add gradually to syrup mixture. Cook over low heat stirring until thick and clear. Add salt, lemon juice and enough colour to make a bright red shade similar to the berries. Pour hot mixture over the berries, mix gently and cool. Place in baked Jewel shell. Garnish if desired with a border of sweetened whipped cream.

Note: If desired 2-10 oz. packages frozen strawberries may be substituted. Frozen and drain berries. The drained fruit juice may be substituted for part of the water.

*Canned peaches or apricots may be used. Add orange food colouring instead of the red.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

From Vancouver for Ball

Mr. T. G. Phillips, president of the Naval Officers' Association, and Mrs. Phillips, will come from Vancouver next week to attend the summer ball in HMCS Naden, planned by the board of directors of the Armed Forces Centre in honor of Rear-Admiral J. C. Hibbard, DSC, CD, RCN, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, and Mrs. Hibbard.

Honor Guest Speaker

Members of the past and incoming executive of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs gathered at the Linden Avenue home of Miss Margaret Clay following the meeting Wednesday evening, for an informal reception planned to honor the guest speaker The Hon. Escott Reid, Canada's High Commissioner to India. Mr. Reid, who returned to Canada in April from India, will spend the summer in eastern Canada with his family, and will go back to India in the early autumn.

Post-Rehearsal Party

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Saunders entertained at their home, 3988 Rainbow Avenue, with a post-rehearsal party in honor of their daughter, Miss Marilyn Saunders, and her fiancé, Mr. Pat Carson, whose marriage will take place Saturday evening. Among those attending were members of the bridal party. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Carson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Lindgren, Mrs. E. C. Carson, Mrs. J. Kirby, Mr. B. Butler, Mr. Robert Saunders, Misses Maureen Pedneault, Dell Johnson, Patsy Kirby, Sharon Smith, and Master William Kirby.

A Year Overseas

Mrs. Simon Marinker with Peter and Michele will leave Monday from Vancouver aboard RMS Orsova for a voyage to England via the Panama Canal. They will travel in England, Scotland and Ireland returning to Victoria in about a year's time.

In Honor of the Bride

A corsage of sweetheart roses was presented to bride-elect Miss Margaret Islip, when she arrived at a miscellaneous shower recently given by Mrs. J. Burnett and Mrs. Doreen Eade, 411 Walter Street. Mrs. Gwen Gorst, mother of the bride-to-be, received a corsage of pink carnations, and Mrs. J. Islip, grandmother, received lily of the valley. A gift box gaily decorated with pastel paper carnations held the colorfully wrapped presents. Other guests present were Mrs. V. Marsh, Mrs. J. Cahill, Mrs. J. Burnett, Jr., Mrs. W. Simpson, Mrs. D. Glancey, Mrs. E. Carlow, Mrs. B. Hynes, Mrs. D. Burnett, Sr., Mrs. G. Coon, Mrs. N. Griffin, Mrs. A. Craig, Mrs. LaLonde, Mrs. H. Mortinson, Mrs. D. Burnett, Jr., Mrs. F. Barr, Mrs. P. Carlow, Mrs. G. Grover and Mrs. M. Tooby.

Pink and white streamers and bows decorated the bride-elect's chair at a shower given in honor of Miss Betty Simpson recently. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Mary Mitchell and Mrs. Al Price, at the Synod Road home of the former. A wishing well held the many gifts. Red roses were in Betty's corsage, and her mother, Mrs. E. Simpson, received yellow carnations. Other guests present were Mrs. Ron Gardler, Mrs. Jim Baldwin, Mrs. Jean Mason, Misses Edith Langford, Carol Keifer, Mabel Holyoake, Kay Renton and Mary Ralston. Mrs. W. Rothery was hostess at her home, 500 Lampson, with a miscellaneous shower for Miss Simpson, where a pink and blue decorated box held the bride-elect's gifts. Red roses were in her corsage, and her mother, Mrs. E. Simpson, and the groom-elect's sister, Mrs. O. C. Carey, received pink carnations. Invited guests were Mrs. Al Price, Mrs. C. Renton, Mrs. Ron Gardler, Mrs. V. Catterall, Mrs. R. Lupeter, Mrs. A. Turnquist, Mrs. W. Teale, Mrs. R. Tucker, Mrs. C. Seaman, Mrs. G. Marten, Mrs. W. Main, Mrs. R. Loughney, Mrs. R. Leason, Mrs. G. Pink Wedding Gown Worn By Recent Lovely Bride

Miss Diana Margaret Kerslake was a lovely picture as she entered St. Mark's Church last Saturday evening to become the bride of Harold Walter Townsend.

A pale pink gown of lace over taffeta was chosen by the bride. Her white lace hat with matching gloves and shoes complemented her outfit. Pink rosebuds and white stephanotis were in her bridal bouquet.

The groom's cousin, Miss Pearl Townsend, was only attendant, and wore a soft blue taffeta dress with matching shoes and hat. Her bouquet was of pink carnations and cream marguerites.

INSTITUTES RE-ELECT PRESIDENT

WINNIPEG (CP)—Mrs. J. W. Adams of Ethelton, Sask., Wednesday was re-elected president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

Delegates to the 19th biennial convention here named Mrs. J. L. Rose of Ochre River, Man., first vice-president and Mrs. K. Rand of Port William, N.S., second vice-president.

New members of the sub-executive are Mrs. A. B. Conell of St. John's, Nfld., and Mrs. G. McRhatther of Owen Sound, Ont.

First Convention

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada will hold its first national convention in Ottawa in 1957, delegates to the biennial board meeting decided Wednesday.

It will be the first time since the federation was organized in 1919 that a representative national convention will be held. An executive board, with representatives from each province, has been meeting every two years in place of the convention.

Representation to the national convention will be two delegates for every 500 provincial members plus delegates on the federation's board.

The meeting also decided to set up a national office to keep continuity in FWIC's work and policy. Delegates hoped to raise funds for the office through voluntary contribution, federal grants and capital shares.

AT THE ART GALLERY

3 Contrasting Shows Currently Displayed

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

It should prove a matter of keen interest to even the most non-technical of viewers, at the Art Gallery during the next several days, to be able to consider three such contrasting shows as those now occupying the main floor rooms.

Particularly is this contrast intriguing when, having enjoyed the restrained and rarefied atmosphere of Grace Melvin's chalk and water color drawings, one turns to the forthright, instinctive and vigorous paintings of native artists of Africa.

Oil and prints by Vancouver artist Ronald Kelly complete the trio of shows which will be on display until June 27.

In the highly skilled craftsmanship of Miss Melvin, who until recent retirement was head of the department of design at the Vancouver Art School, one is aware of the mature artist's superb and sensitive draughtsman.

INTERESTING TONES

Her technique is severely disciplined to produce airy effects of space and light by subtle and economic means. No free-flowing washes or large, unbroken masses of tone are used. Instead a nearly dry brush drags buoyant color across small areas in an interesting play of opposed and related tones, while an overlap of chalk and charcoal drawing places delicate emphasis on the essential forms.

True, a certain monotony pervades the exhibition of 20 paintings. But even so the charm of individual pieces will detach them from the rest for each viewer. One of my own favorites was "Fragrant Budgie," which has the elusive, fragile beauty of a Chinese silk print.

The paintings in gouache, done by a group of African natives under the guidance of an Englishwoman at Makerere College, are blessedly free of any alien or sophisticated influences.

TRULY PRIMITIVE

They represent phases of life in an African village seen and translated into line and color with that simplicity of understanding and directness of feeling that invests primitive art with its charm in an over-complicated civilization.

Aside from which, most of the paintings reveal a thoroughly delightful color sense. But it is the instinct for design and perspective, the utilization of space and compositional elements, that is most extraordinary. Fine examples of these factors will be found in "The Rains," "Cleansing the Lepers," "Hut Building" and "The Chief and His Cattle."

In the oils by Ronald Kelly one feels less satisfaction for this, an artist who appears to be seeking some quality or mode of expression he is yet to find. In the meantime his work is somewhat overshadowed by influences no doubt absorbed during two years' study in France.

Sombre in tone and lacking in an understanding of underlying substance and surface planes, the nudes and portraits have a flat, rather lifeless quality, though the application of the paint and the play of interrelated tones in some instances is quite masterly.

Among his still life subjects, there is some rich and handsome color and more interesting use is made of the picture spaces.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Gardeners: On Your Knees, Get Close to Your Subject

Eternal vigilance is the price of safety.

Possibly many of our garden troubles are due to our lack of vigilance. It is becoming a lost art, something belonging to the days of hand work and manual labor.

Hand weeding was one of the finest institutions in gardening. Down on his knees, handling the plants and the soil, the gardener was a part of his garden.

Today we garden from a distance. Our labor-saving devices permit working from an upright position. Mechanical aids keep our fingers off the soil and our heads above the plants.

Some contend we have more pests today. It could be the gardener on his knees who saw the first two aphids under a leaf and disposed of them with thumb and finger, preventing an infestation.

The first sign of mildew, blight or leaf curl was easily noticed and the offending foliage removed, obviating the need for poisons to control.

With hands in the soil the old gardener could estimate the humus and moisture content as grandmother estimated the oven's heat. And neither of them was far wrong in the estimate.

Working on a level with the plants, gardener and plants became intimately acquainted. Gardening might be a lot easier if we went back to our knees, increased our vigilance and took care of our troubles before they grew up.

Josiane in the Raw For Sweet Charity

PARIS. (UP)—A full-length nude portrait of Marlon Brando's fiancée looked out today on the busy Place de l'Opera, mecca for foreign tourists.

The painting was put up for sale in a department store window, and French newspapers were wondering:

"Will Marlon buy it?"

The picture shows the American film star's 20-year-old girlfriend, Josiane Marien Berenger, reclining languidly on a red drape. She is wearing absolutely nothing.

In the crowds were many American tourists, en route to the American Express a block away, or drifting over from the Cafe de la Paix, famed gathering place of travelers.

The son of the artist, Polish-born Moise Kessel, has expressed hope that the 28-year-old winning actor would purchase the likeness of his loved one "despite its high price."

3,000,000 francs, or $8,571. Sale of the painting is part of a charity campaign to send poor children to summer camps.

The subject of the portrait, Josiane, is the daughter of a French fisherman in the village of Bando.

After the highly-publicized courtship in Bando, Marlon and Josiane departed for the United States which she had visited previously as a model.

Franchot Tone Replaced in Stratford Role

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—Franchot Tone, United States stage and screen actor, who was scheduled to take part in the inaugural music season of the Shakespearean festival this year, will not appear.

Festival official Louis Applebaum announced Wednesday that Tone's place will be taken by William Needles, Toronto stage and radio actor and a member of the festival company during its first two years.

2-Shot System Suggested For Vancouver Polio Plan

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver metropolitan health committee may recommend adoption of a system of two anti-polio Salk vaccine shots with a "booster" shot seven months later.

This was indicated at a committee meeting Wednesday night by Dr. Stewart Murray, senior medical health officer.

First Salk vaccine shots given to B.C. children this spring were administered in three doses over five weeks, instead of following Dr. Salk's recommendation of two shots with a booster later.

Dr. Stewart said the city would consult with provincial health authorities before making a final decision.

diamond on dummy's king of hearts. If you turn a club, you can ruff it with a trump from your hand, with an ace on the ace of diamonds. Your contract is assured no matter what you do.

Now, if you lead a heart in this way, you are a loser. You are sure to lose a spade by leading trumps in the West hand. If you lose a heart, you may double the loss, or you may try to guess the location of diamonds. In any case, you guess wrong.

SHOT 11 TIMES ON WAY TO SCHOOL

Bodies of Bullet-Riddled Girls Found in Quiet Washington Park

WASHINGTON (UP)—"Why do these things happen?" the grieving mother asked in stunned dismay. "They were clean, sensible kids."

The same question today haunted her neighbors in a normally quiet, middle-class, suburban community near the University of Maryland.

The "clean, sensible kids"—Nancy Marie Shomette, 16, a tall, blue-eyed blonde, and Michael Ann Ryan, 14, daughter of a Washington policeman—were murdered in a wooded park near their homes.

They were shot down while walking to Northwestern high school where Nancy was to pick up her report card on the last day of school. Nancy was shot 11 times; Michael Ann, three. Neither was attacked sexually.

"Why, why?" Mrs. Print E. Shomette, mother of Nancy, asked over and over.

20 QUESTIONED

Police who swarmed into the neighborhood questioned more than 20 persons for information but settled on an 18-year-old youth as their principal suspect. Officers were told he was a rejected suitor of one of the girls and had once sent her a threatening note.

The youth gave an alibi to account for his time during the hours the slayings were believed to have occurred. Police worked through the night and into the morning checking on his story. The girls' bodies were discovered by 12-year-old Barbara Huff as she crossed the park and her neighbor's English spaniel, Tiny, broke from her side and ran toward them.

Nancy was lying on her back against a log, her clothes in disarray, her face bloody, near a bridge which crosses a small creek. Thirty-two feet away was Michael Ann, also on her back, her pink shirt and jacket in order but with blood on her face and legs.

DRAWN, COVERED
Police Chief George Panagoulis said twigs had been scattered over both bodies, apparently in a hurried, unfinished attempt to cover them.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

ESTATE OF CLIFFORD CHARLES HARRIS

All creditors and persons having claims or demands against the estate of the above-named deceased, who died on or about the 27th day of April, 1958 at Salt Spring Island, Province of British Columbia, are required to send to the undersigned on or before the 21st day of July, 1958, their names, addresses and full particulars in writing of their claims and demands verified by Statutory Declaration.

After the said 21st day of July, 1958, the undersigned will proceed to distribute the assets of the said Estate among the persons entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims and demands of which he then shall have had notice, and that he will make final distribution of the assets at the expiration of one year after the death of the deceased.

Dated at Victoria, B.C., this 16th day of June, 1958.

R. L. Cox, Official Administrator, Administrator of the Estate of the above-named deceased, 519 Central Building, Victoria, B.C.

WRONG DATES

Centenary Opposition Mounting

The president of the B.C. Historical Society today joined opponents of the 1958 centennial for British Columbia, and said that year should be termed "The Year of the Gold Rush."

Mrs. A. D. Turnbull, wife of a former B.C. health minister, told The Times from Trail that the year of the gold rush "would be better and more accurate."

Premier Bennett has officially announced that the year 1958 will be celebrated as B.C.'s 100th birthday, but opposition is mounting.

Reason for the controversy is that Vancouver Island and the mainland were separate colonies until 1866. Therefore, say the opponents, the centennial celebration should be in 1966.

Mainland boosters claim formation of the mainland colony of British Columbia, in 1858, is the province's birthdate.

PARTLY RIGHT

Mrs. Turnbull said the mainland supporters "are right to a certain extent," and that there should be some form of celebration, but that B.C.'s centennial should not be held until 1966, 100 years from the date of merging the two colonies.

She said the B.C. Historical Society is on record as urging a celebration be held in 1958, "but as far as I know, they meant the Cariboo gold rush."

This suggestion has gained the support of provincial librarian and archivist Willard Ireland, who also agrees that "technically" the birthdate of B.C. occurred when the colonies joined together in 1866.

Premier Bennett meanwhile is standing firm on the 1958 centennial. He said this morning the 1958 date is not a "hoax or a fraud" as suggested by one historian.

The premier added that if some disagree with the date, B.C. could have celebrations in 1958, 1966 and in 1971, 100 years from the time B.C. joined Confederation.

Alex Hope, president of the Fort Langley Restoration Society, which led the campaign to have a 1958 centennial, suggested a compromise.

"Why not hold two centennials, one for when the crown colony of British Columbia (the mainland) was formed, and the other for when they were joined?" he asked.

Mr. Hope said that if Vancouver Island tries to block the 1958 centenary, "I guess we will have to hold ours on our own. If they want to wait until '66, that's up to them," he said.

He said he was convinced the Fort Langley society will not back down on the 1958 date.

CBC Commentator, To Speak Here

Ex-Victoria Times reporter Peter Stursberg, CBC commentator at the United Nations in New York, will address a joint meeting of the Canadian Club at a luncheon in the Empress Hotel ballroom, June 29. His topic is "The China Crisis and the U.N." Chairman is Douglas Patterson, president of the men's club.

Council Permits Float Operation

SAANICHTON—Fishing boat operator Claude Creed was given permission Tuesday night by Central Saanich Council to anchor his float in the usual summer position at Brentwood Bay.

Complaints had been registered by adjacent property owners relative to the position of the floats.

Mr. Harry Peard said he had interviewed Mr. Creed and inspected the foreshore property, adding that the business had been operated by the same family for 30 years, was kept neat and clean, and in his opinion was no detriment to anybody.

Building inspector Philip S. Lomas informed council that the inspector of foreshore leases was expected at Brentwood next week. Council members may take the opportunity of interviewing the inspector.

Mercedes Cars Withdraw From Racing

STUTTGART, Germany (CP)—Daimler-Benz, manufacturers of the world-beating Mercedes racing car which caused the deaths of 82 persons at the 24-hour Le Mans endurance race Saturday, announced Wednesday its withdrawal from Grand Prix racing in 1956.

Mercedes managing director Dr. Fritz Hoencke also told a press conference at the factory here that the firm would not compete at any track this year unless its own stringent regulations were complied with.

The conditions, which the company laid down earlier this week in a telegram to the International Automobile Federation, included tighter security measures to protect spectators and strict tests for drivers.

LAST KILLS POULTS

SAANICHTON—An evening blast in Keating recently killed 1,400 turkey poults in the hatcheries of R. M. Lamont.

Central Saanich council, as a result, has prohibited blasting within one-half mile of a hatchery between Jan. 31 and June 1 without prior consent of poultrymen.

Peron Battles Armed Rebellion

Sub Explodes In U.K. Port

Divers Find No Sign of Life
In Hull Where 13 Entombed

PORTLAND, England (Reuters)—A British submarine exploded in harbor here today and went to the bottom with 13 crew members aboard. Rescue officials announced there was no hope for the entombed men—one of them a Canadian—after divers probed the craft for tell-tale knockings from inside which would indicate there was still life aboard.

One of the 13 was Petty Officer Laverne McLeod, 24, a Canadian volunteer on submarine duty with the Royal Navy. McLeod was a native of Goderich, Ont., and his next-of-kin resides at Stratford, Ont. It was not immediately known whether the 13 died in the blast, caused by the explosion of a torpedo propellant, or were suffocated as water seeped in to fill the forward torpedo compartment where they were trapped.

Most of the crew scrambled out of the conning tower after the explosion. Minutes later the vessel, the 1,000-ton Sidon, settled by the bows and suddenly nosed under to take her last torpedo propellant, or were suffocated.

Seven Saved Before Ship Sank

The explosion sent up a sheet of flame and billowing clouds of smoke. Debris was blown up through the conning tower hatch.

Seven injured seamen were rescued before the Sidon went down. A naval spokesman said after six hours of desperate rescue attempts—divers and salvage ships were drawn from all over the south coast of England—that no hope could be held for the 13.

A rescue party equipped with breathing apparatus boarded the vessel minutes before she sank. In darkness and heavy smoke they struggled in vain to work through the debris to the explosion area forward.

The blast occurred in the forward part of the Sidon at 8:45 a.m. as the sub lay alongside a "mother ship" moored in this south coast naval base. She was preparing to put to sea, but all the 44 crew members were not yet aboard.

Many of those aboard leaped from hatches following the blast. Eyewitnesses said the explosion sent up a "terrible volume of yellowish smoke."

An Admiralty spokesman said: "There has been no suggestion as yet that sabotage could have been responsible."

Lurched—Then Dived to Doom

"She lurched down by the bows right away and then took a sharp dive," said one of the dozens of base workers who saw the sinking.

Small boats picked up swimming survivors who had jumped clear as the Sidon went down. Two were taken to hospital.

The Sidon was one of five submarines lying alongside the depot ship Maidstone. All five were due to put to sea soon for exercises.

The mooring ship Moordale manoeuvred into position immediately after the blast and put a cable around the stern of the Sidon. A naval helicopter sped divers to the scene. They went down to probe damage immediately and to determine means for reaching the trapped men.

The Sidon, an S-class vessel, was built in 1944. She mounts a 20-millimetre cannon and a three-inch gun, and is equipped with 21-inch torpedo tubes.

She took part in operations during the Second World War, and participated in the recapture of Hong Kong in 1945. Britain's last submarine disaster occurred in April 1951, when the Affray sank in the English channel with the loss of 75 lives.

Sixty-four Royal Navy men died in January, 1950, when the sub Truculent sank after a collision with a Dutch vessel in the Thames estuary.

Ironically, the navy announced the successful conclusion only Wednesday of tests on a new escape chamber by which men trapped in a submarine underwater can get out more safely. The device had not yet been fitted aboard the Sidon.

Campney Cautious On Defence Cuts

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was told it has not implemented its own policies of strengthening defence against attack, Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative defence spokesman, said in the Commons today.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada welcomes friendly gestures from behind the Iron Curtain but does not intend to lessen her defence effort, Defence Minister Campney said today.

"The present climate of international affairs appears to be moderating," he said, "but we cannot be sure that the better weather of recent months will endure."

The minister spoke as the House opened discussion on defence estimates for 1955-56 totalling $1,775,000,000 plus other items for defence production and related matters.

On specific points involving Canada's defence program, Mr. Campney made these statements:

1. The army has decided to adopt the Belgian-developed FN rifle as its standard rifle.
2. It is "arrant nonsense" to talk of abolishing the army, as there will be continuing need for high-calibre ground forces in the foreseeable future.
3. Though Canada expects to spend on the air force this year approximately as much as the combined expenditures for the other services and defence research, this increasing emphasis on air is not at the expense of the other services.
4. The strength of the three regular forces at April 30 stood at 117,999 against the approved maximum strength of 120,000. The division: Navy, 19,292; army, 49,187; RCAF, 49,520.
5. Development tests on air-to-air guided missiles have yielded good results.
6. The government's intention of equipping RCAF auxiliary squadrons with CF-100 jets is being reconsidered.

QUEEN MARY CREW JOINS U.K. STRIKE

SOUTHAMPTON (AP)—Britain's wildest seamen's strike tied up the 81,000-ton liner Queen Mary today, and 1,100 New York-bound passengers started disembarking. The strike already has tied up Cunard's 32,000-ton Mauretania and five other trans-Atlantic liners.

Mayor Meets Bonner Monday On Auditorium

City Committee Waits for Parley

Mayor Claude Harrison will meet Attorney-General Robert Bonner Monday to discuss recent suggestions by Premier Bennett for use of the capital city grant in providing a civic auditorium here.

Premier Bennett was scheduled to leave today for Ottawa and that is the reason for the meeting with Mr. Bonner.

Due to the impending meeting, city finance committee today deferred discussions on the matter.

The committee was slated to consider suggestions by the premier that the province would be willing to increase the $50,000 capital grant to $75,000 in order to assist the city construct an auditorium.

IN NEWSPAPERS
But the matter was stalled when it was pointed out that there has been no official communication from the government.

"It has all been newspaper reports," said Ald. W. F. Pinfold, finance chairman.

The mayor is expected to report on an official offer at council meeting next Thursday. Failing that, it is reliably reported the committee will submit a plan to council itself, based on the premier's published offer.

It is possible that following the meeting with the attorney-general, a special session of the finance committee will be called, prior to the council meeting.

"The committee is unanimously in favor of building an auditorium, but we could not debate how to set up the machinery to get one until there is something official from the government," said Ald. Pinfold.

A recent suggestion by Ald. Brent Murdoch that the question of a provincial grant in lieu of taxes should be settled before the capital grant is used for a civic centre, was opposed by Ald. Robert Macmillan.

"Let's get the auditorium first," he stated. He added that the two matters should be kept separate.

Meanwhile, the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce Wednesday offered to donate $5,000 to "start the ball rolling" on the new auditorium.

Three members were appointed a committee to organize a civic auditorium group among city businessmen. Named were Alf Heaslip, Frank Mannix and Jack Ledger.

Mr. Heaslip said need for a civic auditorium was brought forward during the May convention here of Jaycees from throughout B.C. and the Yukon.

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners plans to impose two successive increases of 10 per cent each on the freight rates on grain and grain products moving within the West for domestic consumption.

West Big 3 Ministers Meet Today

NEW YORK (UP)—The western Big Three foreign ministers, seeking a united front for next week's talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov in San Francisco, began a two-day strategy session here today.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived by air from Washington Wednesday night. British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay flew to New York this morning.

They gathered at Wave Hill, the official residence of Sir Pierson Dixon, British ambassador to the United Nations, at Riverdale in New York City's northernmost reaches along the Hudson River. There the talks were scheduled to begin at a lunch given by Macmillan.

Molotov had gone on before them. Arriving by ship early Wednesday morning, he left for San Francisco by train.

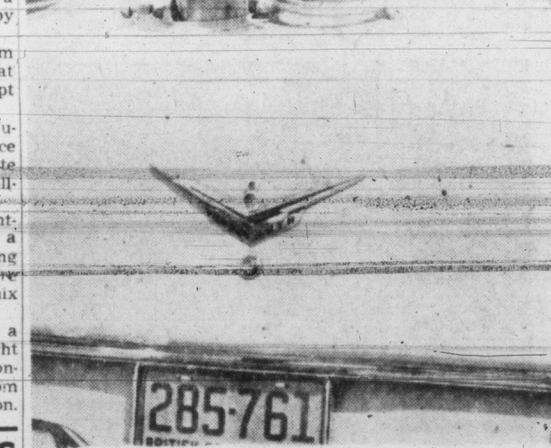

Million Canadian 'Casualties' In Continental Defence Test

EISENHOWER DECLARES MOCK 'MARTIAL LAW'

EMERGENCY U.S. NEWS CENTRE (UP)—President Eisenhower, leading a government exiled to the countryside by a mock atomic blitz, today declared a mock state of martial law across the nation.

After conferences Wednesday night with top officials on the paper war in the "Operation Alert" civil defence exercise, Mr. Eisenhower decided that mounting "casualties" in the millions made it "essential" that the armed services police the nation.

The theoretical martial law would be in effect until Congress could come into session and the government could pull the country back on its feet from a simulated enemy attack with nuclear bombs from coast to coast.

Argentine Navy, Air Force Jets Bomb Palace

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Jet planes joined in the attack on government house this afternoon, indicating the air force may have joined naval aviation forces in today's revolt. Casualties in the area were believed to be huge.

By SAM SUMMERL

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Waves of bombers started dropping high explosives around Government House at 3:26 p.m. (11:26 p.m., PDT) just when the forces of Peron appeared to be dominating the fighting in downtown Buenos Aires.

At least a dozen bombs fell within eight minutes of the new attack which began in the general area around Government House. It was feared the number of victims would be heavy, since the area includes a number of public and private office buildings.

The revolt against the government of President Juan Peron broke out early today, shortly after the Vatican excommunicated him and other government leaders.

There was a pitched battle in the centre of Buenos Aires, and planes bombed government house, the seat of the government. Revolutionists fired mortars, machine-guns and rifles against the presidential guard.

The revolt was reported to have spread to Rosario, Argentina's second city, although the government claimed the country was quiet outside Buenos Aires.

UPRISING IN FORCES

The state radio said units of the air force and navy had rebelled but that army troops were fighting to restore order. It said one airplane had been shot down and three others forced to land. Later the radio said only naval planes were involved.

This correspondent saw casualties being removed from the Plaza de Mayo, in front of government house. Nearby is the national cathedral, centre of last week-end's disturbances involving supporters of the Roman Catholic Church and followers of Peron in his campaign to curb the Church in this country.

The centre of the city was virtually alive with troops, and barks of workers could be seen running in the direction of government house shouting "Peron, Peron!"

When news reached here of the Vatican's action against Peron, Hugo di Pietro, assistant secretary of the government-controlled General Federation of Labor, asked all workers to gather immediately at the federation headquarters, about 10 blocks from government house.

New CD Tests Coming

OTTAWA (BUP)—The government intends to put Canadian continental air defences and civil defence organizations through their paces in an operation similar to Alert 11, Health Minister Paul Martin said today.

MP SEEKS MONDAY HOLIDAYS FOR JULY 1 OBSERVANCE

By VICTOR MACKIE, Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Canadians will not have a long weekend holiday when observing the Dominion Day celebration this year because July 1 falls on a Friday and that is the day, by law, that it is celebrated.

But this may be the last year for automatic observance on July 1, J. L. MacDougall (L., Vancouver-Burrard), who was instrumental in having May 24 celebrated on the nearest Monday each year, plans on introducing a bill at the next session of Parliament to have July 1 celebrated on the appropriate Monday.

HOW? IS WORD AS CHIEF MEETS CHIEF

Blackstock Asks Split Cloud To Tell of Red Man's Magic

Is the "death-defying" bullet life insurance in case the chief catches act of Chief Split Cloud, Sportsmen's Show sharp-shooter, a hoax—or are spectators seated in the line of fire risking a hole in the head?

Arena manager Joe Dukowski said today show authorities were expected to come up with an answer this afternoon at a special meeting with City Police Chief John Blackstock.

About 4,000 Victorians have watched the Indian chief and his son Yellow Hawk hold the impossible with a .22 rifle and a .45 revolver.

A good many of the spectators were practically looking down the barrel and have since wondered whether their admission ticket covered them with off.

PRESIDENT JUAN PERON ... Pope cracks down in Argentine church-state dispute

Vatican Excludes Peron

ROME (Reuters)—The Holy See today publicly excommunicated all those in Argentina who "trampled" on the rights of the Roman Catholic Church.

The declaration did not specifically name President Juan Peron nor members of his regime which has waged a long battle to reduce the power of the Church in state affairs.

There was no doubt however that the Argentine president fell under the declaration. Excommunication is an extreme punishment excluding a Catholic from communion with fellow Catholics.

The order was contained in a Latin declaration issued by the Vatican's consistorial congregation.

(The Associated Press said the consistorial congregation of the Church announced that all persons connected with the expulsion of Bishop Manuel Tato from Argentina have been excommunicated. The AP said the announcement in the Vatican-published L'Osservatore Romano disclosed the measure applies to all persons directly or indirectly responsible for the expulsion of the prelate and for interfering with "rights of the Church.")

Peron himself is a Catholic, as all Argentine presidents must be. Excommunication bars a person or persons from receiving the sacraments. It does not mean that a person is a priest, he may not administer them. He is deprived of all share in indulgences and the public prayers of the Church. He has no right to attend the services of the Church, except sermons, nor to receive Catholic burial.

On any well-organized range, nobody fires if there is anyone in front of the firing line. Why don't the same precautions apply at the show?

Arena commission chairman Henry Watson says, "We have the arena manager's assurance that it is completely in order."

Arena manager Joe Dukowski says, "This same act has been going on for 35 years in bigger centres than this. There has never been a riotous and no one has ever been hurt. Draw your own conclusions."

Most significant remark may be that of Mr. Watson, who said "If it is a conjuring trick—aren't they getting good value for their money?"

FINAL BULLETINS

Air Force Launches Search For Plane Lost Two Days

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The air force launched a search today for a Pacific Western Airlines plane missing over the B.C. coast since Tuesday with four men aboard.

The plane, a float-equipped Cessna 180, left Ocean Falls with its pilot and three government surveyors on a flight to Kemano and has not been heard from since.

Only one of the occupants immediately identified was the pilot, Capt. Robert Dieffen of Vancouver.

The air force said there was a possibility the plane made a safe landing on a coastal inlet and had been unable to establish radio contact.

Vancouver Police Probe Continuing

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Police Commission met behind closed doors for the second time in 24 hours this afternoon to consider charges of graft and corruption made against the city police department by a Toronto tabloid.

Mayor Fred Hume said no statement would be made until "this situation is thoroughly discussed."

City Golf Finalists Decided

Mrs. Shirley Naysmith and Mrs. D. Rhys-Jones today qualified for Friday's 18-hole final for the city ladies' golf championship.

Mrs. Naysmith, tournament medalist, scored a 5 and a victory over Mrs. Ken Lawson in the semi-finals at Royal Colwood Golf Club today while Mrs. Rhys-Jones entered the final with a 3 and 2 conquest over Mrs. Peggy Harris.

Cool Weather Lifts B.C. Flood Threat

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Continued cool weather lifted British Columbia's threat today and optimistic flood authorities said the danger stage appeared to have been passed.

RCN MAN KILLED

13 Perish In Sub Blast

PORTLAND, England (Reuters)—A British submarine exploded in harbor here today and went to the bottom with 13 crew members aboard. Rescue officials announced there was no hope for the entombed men—one of them a Canadian—after divers probed the craft for tell-tale knockings from inside which would indicate there was still life aboard.

One of the 13 was Petty Officer Laverne McLeod, 24, an RCN volunteer on submergence duty with the Royal Navy. McLeod was a native of Goderich, Ont., and his next-of-kin resides at Stratford, Ont.

It was not immediately known whether the 13 died in the blast, caused by the explosion of a torpedo propellant, or were suffocated as water seeped in to fill the forward torpedo compartment where they were trapped.

Most of the crew scrambled out of the conning tower after the explosion. Minutes later the vessel, the 1,000-ton Sidon, settled by the bows and suddenly nosed under to take her last dive.

The blast occurred in the forward part of the Sidon at 8.45 a.m. as the sub lay alongside.

Seven Saved Before Ship Sank

The explosion sent up a sheet of flame and billowing clouds of smoke. Debris was blown up through the conning tower hatch.

Seven injured seamen were rescued before the Sidon went down.

A naval spokesman said after six hours of desperate rescue attempts—divers and salvage ships were drawn from all over the south coast of England—that no hope could be held for the 13.

A rescue party equipped with breathing apparatus boarded the vessel minutes before she sank. In darkness and heavy smoke they struggled in vain to work through the debris to the explosion area forward.

They scrambled off the listing Sidon just before she nosed under.

Fresh-air fan is Tye, year-old English Pointer who works the fields for sportsman Ernie Todd, 508 Island Road. So Mr. Todd had special porthole cut in trunk of his car. Thus, when Tye and boss are on their way to the hunting grounds, the Pointer can have a look around or curl up on his blanket on the floor of the trunk, whichever he prefers. Campney Cautious On Defence Cuts

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was told it has not implemented its own policies of strengthening defence against air attack, Maj. Gen. G. R. Peakes, V.C., Progressive Conservative defence spokesman, said in the Commons today.

The minister spoke at the House opened discussion on defence estimates for 1955-56 totalling $1,775,000,000 plus other items for defence production and related matters.

On specific points involving Canada's defence program, Mr. Campney made these statements:

1. The army has decided to adopt the Belgian-developed FN rifle as its standard rifle.
2. It is "arrant nonsense" to talk of abolishing the army, as there will be continuing need for high-calibre ground forces in the foreseeable future.

3. Though Canada expects to spend on the air force this year approximately as much as the combined expenditures for the other services and defence research, this increasing emphasis on air is not at the expense of the other services.

4. The strength of the three regular forces at April 30 stood at 117,999 against the approved maximum strength of 120,000. The division: Navy, 19,292; army, 49,187; RCAF, 49,520.

5. Development tests on air-to-air guided missiles have yielded good results.

6. The government's intention to equip RCAF auxiliary squadrons with CF-100 jets is being reconsidered.

7. The state radio said units of the air force and navy had rebelled but that army troops were fighting to restore order.

Many Dead, Wounded In Jet Air Raids

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Juan D. Peron said tonight his regime has put down today's revolution and those to blame have been detained.

"Everything is normal throughout the republic," the official radio said shortly before Peron took to the air.

He said the navy was to blame for the numerous dead and wounded. He reported a few points of resistance remained to be cleaned up, but that the revolution was under control.

"We will never forget the infamy of our enemies," the Argentine strong man said.

But he called upon the people to be calm.

The revolt came a few hours after the Vatican excommunicated Peron for actions against the Roman Catholic Church.

The government said naval aviation forces were responsible for the attack. It claimed the army and the regular air force were loyal. Jet planes joined in the second attack, however—an indication that at least some elements of the air force might be involved.

Government house contains the offices of President Peron. It is not his home, although it is called the Casa Rosada (pink house). However, bombs also dropped in the neighborhood of the presidential palace, in a residential district, but there was no indication of harm to Peron.

CANADIAN INVOLVED
Reuters news agency reported Maj. Gen. L. R. LaFleche, Canadian ambassador, was at government house when the first bombs were dropped. There was no immediate word on how he had fared.

Huge crowds had gathered in the Plaza de Mayo by the time of the second air raid on government house, and there were fears many persons in the area were dead or injured. The crowds grew panicky as they sought shelter. They contained many laborers, drawn to the scene by appeals from Peron's labor federation seeking to muster support for the president.

If the excommunicated person is a priest, he may not administer them. He is deprived of all share in indulgences and the public prayers of the Church. He has no right to attend the services of the Church, except sermons, nor to receive Catholic burial.

(The Associated Press said the consistorial congregation of the Church announced that all persons connected with the expulsion of Bishop Manuel Tato from Argentina have been excommunicated.)

(The AP said the announcement applies to all persons directly or indirectly responsible for the expulsion of the prelate and for interfering with "rights of the Church.")
